Natural Products and Human Diseases Amirhossein Sahebkar, Thozhukat Sathyapalan, 2022-01-03 Natural products have a long history of use as folk medicines in several systems of traditional medicine. Extensive evidence from modern pharmacological studies has confirmed traditional applications and unveiled the vast potential of naturally occurring compounds, particularly plant-derived phytochemicals, in the management of chronic human diseases. The past decade has witnessed a surge of findings from randomized controlled trials testifying the safety and efficacy of natural products as adjuncts or alternatives to standard of care medications for several illnesses. Biomolecular studies have unveiled hundreds of cellular and molecular targets for phytochemicals, including key transcription factors, receptors, enzymes, hormones, neurotransmitters, cytokines, lipids, and non-coding RNAs. Extensive research on the preventative and therapeutic effects of natural products necessitates regular updating of the literature as to the developing potential roles of these compounds in different human diseases. This new book provides an overview of the current pharmacological and clinical features of natural products and the role of phytopharmaceutical compounds in health and diseases. Chapters cover a wide scope from cancers to chronic and age-related disorders and are written by leading international subject experts. Collectively, chapters will provide useful insights on the regulatory effects of phytochemicals and nutraceuticals on pathogenic molecular signatures associated with pathologies, disease biomarkers, and aging-related pathways.

Natural Products for the Management of Arthritic Disorders Rupesh K. Gautam, Lokesh Deb, Kamal Dua, 2022-08-20 Rheumatoid arthritis (RA) is the most common inflammatory complication and affects approximately 1 % of the global population. It affects three times more women than men. RA is an autoimmune disorder elicited by exposure of genetic factors from the host to unknown antigens, causing arthritogenic complaints. It also includes the activation of lymphocytes as well as CD4 helper T cells along with local release of chronic inflammatory mediators and cytokines like tumor necrosis factor (TNF) and various cytokines like interleukins (IL) that enormously affect the joints. The available allopathic therapies for RA are not a cure for the complications, and antibody therapy and surgical procedures are expensive. However, in the present era, researchers and healthcare professionals have moved toward natural medicines obtained from plants and other natural sources Research based on developments in phytomedicine has progressed steadily Evidence has been collected to show the massive therapeutic potential of medicinal plants used in various traditional systems against many pathological complications Researchers have focused on the therapeutic potential of natural products used for treatment and counteracting various disorders along with their complications having negligible adverse effects Natural Products for the Management of Arthritic Disorders compiles current knowledge about the bioactive compounds and herbal formulations useful in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis 11 chapters explain the role of natural products in the management of rheumatoid arthritis Topics have been contributed by experts in medicinal chemistry and rheumatology The book first introduces the reader to rheumatoid arthritis before delving into conventional and alternative therapies for the disease The editors have also included special topics such as the biomarkers for RA cytokines and anti inflammatory mediators preclinical and clinical studies The range of topics should provide a comprehensive overview of natural remedies for arthritis and the role of natural products in anti arthritic drug development The information will be useful for many readers including medical and pharmacology students multidisciplinary research scholars scientists pharma herbal food industrialists and policy makers
