Stillwell point out in their introductory chapter the experience with PSS in the world of professional practice has been disappointing. A substantial number of PSS have been developed but most of them are academic prototypes or one off professional applications that have not been adopted elsewhere.

RIBA International Practices, 1992 New Civil Engineer, 1977 Facility Design & Management, 1989 Managing Public Services - Implementing Changes Tony L. Doherty, Terry Horne, Simon Wootton, 2014-01-03

The work of a manager in a service organisation is not the same as the work of a manager in an organisation that manufactures goods. Managing Public Services - Implementing Changes A Thoughtful Approach 2e is for students and managers who intend to work in a service organisation whether it is owned publicly or privately. This book concentrates on how managers can change things for the better and explains why as well as how. The second edition has been fully updated to address challenges facing public services with new material on managing cuts, managing risk, managing innovation, producing funding applications, Lean Management and process review. A new chapter on managing social enterprise and generating social capital has also been added. This text is both solidly practical and theoretically challenging and is supported by strong pedagogical features including case studies and illustrative vignettes from public service managers working in Europe, Asia, Australia and the US, exercises and review questions. Students will develop learning skills that enable them to transfer their learning from one situation to another and thinking skills that enable them to adapt the way that they apply their learning as circumstances change. This comprehensive text has been specifically designed and developed to meet the needs of students studying public services management at undergraduate and postgraduate level. It allows the reader to develop transferable skills in thinking and learning as they work through the book and gives greater awareness of the benefits of continuous learning for staff and managers.

Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture Simon Bell, Ingrid Herlin, Richard Stiles, 2011-02-20

What have cultural anthropologists, historical geographers, landscape ecologists and environmental artists got in common? Along with eight other disciplines from domains as diverse as planning and design, the arts and humanities as well as the social and natural sciences, they are all fields of importance to the theory and practice of landscape architecture. In the context of the EU funded LE NOTRE Project, carried out under the auspices of ECLAS, the European Council of Landscape Architecture Schools, international experts from a wide range of related fields were asked to reflect each from their own perspective on the interface between their discipline and landscape architecture The resulting insights presented in this book represent an important contribution to the development the discipline of landscape architecture as well as suggesting new ways in which future collaboration can help to create a greater interdisciplinary richness at a time when the awareness of the importance of the landscape is growing across a wide range of disciplines Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture is the first systematic attempt to explore the territory at the boundaries of landscape architecture It addresses academics professionals and students not just from landscape architecture but also from its neighbouring discipline all of whom will benefit from a better understanding their areas of shared interest and the chance to develop a common language with which to converse Architectural
