From Twitter to Tahrir Square Bala A. Musa, Jim Willis, 2014-06-24 This timely guide examines the influence of social media in private public and professional settings particularly the ethical implications of the cultural changes and trends created by their use In the quest for quick dissemination of information web users and content providers find both opportunity and liability in digital broadcasts Examples abound Twitter members tap into news reports well in advance of traditional print media but stories are prone to inaccuracies and misinformation Facebook shares useful data mined from member profiles but this sharing often compromises privacy It is no surprise that use of social media gives rise to a host of moral dilemmas never before encountered This book sheds light on the effects of this new medium on the individual and society Through two volumes chock full of topics found in news headlines everyday the authors look at evolving trends in social media and their impact on privacy politics and journalism The first volume explores the role of this technology on national and international security Volume 2 focuses on the individual as both a producer and consumer of internet content showing how the media itself is changing notions of self identity relationships and popular culture The book s content covers such topics as individual and community psychology citizen journalism and corporate technology

Public Diplomacy Alan Hunt,2016-02-15 Efforts by governments to influence the public in other countries have existed for some time Though the concept of public diplomacy emerged in the 1960s the advent of ICT has given powerful impetus to this particular way of conducting international relations Increasingly governments lost their quasi monopoly on the control of information to the benefit of public opinion and non state actors Who then does public diplomacy belong to How is the task divided What are the responsibilities of government officials What is the role of non state actors How can one measure the power of the media This publication is designed for diplomats but is also a must have for anyone keen to explore this area in depth

Misunderstandings About Non-Verbal Communication Maurizio Oggiano,Walter Adriani,2023-10-09 In our daily lives communication is prevalent We don t just communicate because we want to we need to Often we use words to understand each other However there are times when we observe people and try to comprehend their intentions We rely on body language This reliance propagates the misleading idea that people communicate with their bodies just as they do with words This is where misunderstandings frequently occur sometimes even due to incorrect concepts propagated by so called experts The result is a loss of trust among readers or worse the disruption of interactions and relationships Through a science based approach this work is primarily dedicated to all readers aged 18 and above who are passionate about communication and keen to understand others Additionally professionals from various sectors will find practical concepts and references for research study and daily work

Christian Worldview and the Academic Disciplines Deane E. D. Downey,Stanley E. Porter,2009-04-15 This book an edited compilation of twenty nine essays focuses on the difference s that a Christian worldview makes for the disciplines or subject areas normally tauht in liberal arts colleges and universities Three initial chapters of introductory material are followed by twenty six essays each dealing with the essential elements or issues in the academic discipline involved These individual essays on each discipline are a unique element of this book These essays also treat some of the specific differences in perspective or procedure that a biblically informed Christian perspective brings to each discipline Christian Worldview and the Academic Disciplines is intended principally as an introductory textbook in Christian worldview courses for Christian college or university students. This volume will also be of interest to Christian students in secular post secondary institutions who may be encountering challenges to their faith both implicit and explicit from peers or professors who assume that holding a strong Christian faith and pursuing a rigorous college or university education are essentially incompatible. This book should also be helpful for college and university professors who embrace the Christian faith but whose post secondary academic background because of its secular orientation has left them inadequately prepared to intelligently apply the implications of their faith to their particular academic specialty. Such specialists be they professors or upper level graduate students will find the extensive bibliographies of recent scholarship at the end of the individual chapters particularly helpful. Downey and Porter present a unique contribution to the perennial question of how faith interacts with the academic disciplines. Numerous factors contribute to this book's significance: the common conviction that one's Christian beliefs ought to shape the contents of one's teaching; the variety of perspectives and opinions; and the wide range of academic disciplines under discussion. The essays originating among the excellent faculty of Trinity Western University will deservedly be much used in undergraduate colleges and universities. Hans Borsma, J. I. Packer Professor of Theology, Regent College. Few faculty Christian or otherwise understand what their colleagues in other departments are doing or why. This collection of essays is not only an excellent introduction to the whole scope of academic enterprises but to the unique and important relationship between each discipline and the Christian faith. An important book not only for the entire range of faculty but for students yearning to understand both their Christian faith and what is being taught in the classroom. James W. Sirf, author of the Universe Next Door and with co-author Carl Peraino Deepest Differences: A Christian Atheist Dialogue. Christian Worldview and the Academic Disciplines is a book long overdue. It will serve as an outstanding textbook for interdisciplinary courses. But this book is more than that. Christian Worldview and the Academic Disciplines is a book that everyone concerned with Christian thought especially in the context of the Academy will want to read. I highly recommend it. Craig A. Evans, Payment Distinguished Professor of New Testament, Acadia Divinity College, Nova Scotia.
