The goal is to come up with a new product line and the associated branding. It becomes clear quite quickly that the two people you do not know have a somewhat unconventional view of how the new product line might work. Your close colleagues are getting increasingly frustrated with their suggestions as they appear to be unworkable and a waste of time.

There is limited time for the exercise and you have a lot to get through in one morning. An hour into the discussion little progress has been made and you recognise that someone needs to take the lead in trying to move the group forwards. What would you do?
