Hale and Bopp

On the night of July 23, 1848, a man named Thomas Bopp was observing the night sky in Arizona through a telescope. He had already watched the sky with the telescope. Bopp noticed a faint glow that he had never seen before. He asked a friend who was with him whether he saw stars. These stars he never knew about to guess that the glow was not one of them.

The day was night in New Mexico. How dark must darkness be back in the night sky through his telescope as he often did.

It was a very clear night. Hale looked up with his telescope at a part of the sky he had been studying a few weeks earlier. Suddenly, he jumped in surprise. He had spotted something new. There it was, a faint, fuzzy glow. Bopp had made a great discovery of what he saw. He believed he had just found a comet.

Hale was shocked by the star. Like Bopp, he did not find the object in the sky. Quickly, Hale sent a message to a place in Massachusetts that means all comets. He told the people at the center what he had seen.

Thomas Bopp also sent a message to the center in Massachusetts. The next morning, he heard back from the center. Bopp, like Hale, had discovered a new comet.

Twelve hours after Hale and Bopp had first seen the comet, it had a name of Hale-Bopp.
