Psychomotor Symptomatology in Psychiatric Illnesses Manuel Morrens, Sebastian Walther, 2015-12-10 Psychomotor symptoms are those symptoms that are characterized by deficits in the initiation execution and monitoring of movements such as psychomotor slowing catatonia neurological soft signs NSS reduction in motor activity or extrapyramidal symptoms EPS These symptoms have not always received the attention they deserve although they can be observed in a wide range of psychiatric illnesses including mood disorders psychotic disorders anxiety disorders pervasive developmental disorders and personality disorders Nevertheless these symptoms seem to have prognostic value on clinical and functional outcome in several pathologies In the late 19th century the founding fathers of modern psychiatry including Kahlbaum Wernicke Kraepelin and Bleuler had a strong focus on psychomotor abnormalities in their description and definitions of psychiatric illnesses and systematically recognized these as core features of several psychiatric pathologies Nevertheless emphasis on these symptoms has reduced substantially since the emergence of psychopharmacology given the association between antipsychotics or antidepressants and medication induced motor deficits This has resulted in the general idea that most if not all psychomotor deficits were merely side effects of their treatment rather than intrinsic features of the illness Yet the last two decades a renewed interest in these deficits can be observed and has yielded an exponential growth of research into these psychomotor symptoms in several psychiatric illnesses This recent evolution is also reflected in the increased appreciation of these symptoms in the DSM 5 As a result of this increased focus new insights into the clinical and demographical presentation the etiology the course the prognostic value as well as treatment aspects of psychomotor symptomatology in different illnesses has emerged Still many new questions arise from these findings This research topic is comprised of all types of contributions original research reviews and opinion piece with a focus on psychomotor symptomatology in a psychiatric illness especially research focusing on one or more of the following topics the clinical presentation of the psychomotor syndrome the course through the illness the diagnostical specificity of the syndrome the underlying neurobiological or neuropsychological processes new assessment techniques pharmacological or non pharmacological treatment strategies

Frontiers in the Acquisition of Literacy Claire M. Fletcher-Flinn, 2015-09-28 Learning to read and to spell are two of the most important cultural skills that must be acquired by children and for that matter anyone learning a second language We are not born with an innate ability to read A reading system of mental representations that enables us to read must be formed in the brain Learning to read in alphabetic orthographies is the acquisition of such a system which links mental representations of visual symbols letters in print words with pre existing phonological sound and semantic comprehension cognitive systems for language Although spelling draws on the same representational knowledge base and is usually correlated with reading the acquisition processes involved are not quite the same Spelling requires the sequential production of letters in words and at beginning levels there may not be a full degree of integration of phonology with its representation by the orthography Reading on the other hand requires only the recognition of a word for pronunciation Hence spelling is more difficult than reading and learning to spell may necessitate more complete representations or more conscious access to them The learning processes that children use to acquire such cognitive systems in the brain and whether these same processes are universal across different languages and orthographies are central theoretical questions Most children learn to read and spell their language at the same time thus the co ordination of these two facets of literacy acquisition needs explication as well as the effect of different teaching approaches on acquisition Lack of progress in either reading and or spelling is also a major issue of concern for parents and teachers necessitating a cross disciplinary approach to the problem encompassing major efforts from researchers in neuroscience cognitive science experimental psychology and education The purpose of this Research Topic is to summarize and review what has been accomplished so far and to further explore these general issues Contributions from different perspectives are welcomed and could include theoretical computational and empirical works that focus on the acquisition of literacy including cross orthographic research

Darling-Hammond, Frank Adamson, 2014-05-14 Performance assessment is a hot topic in school systems and educators continue to analyze its costs benefits and feasibility as a replacement for high stakes testing Until now researchers and policymakers have had to dig to find out what we know and what we still have to learn about performance assessment

Beyond the Bubble Test How Performance Assessments Support 21st Century Learning synthesizes the latest findings in the field and not a moment too soon Statistics indicate that the United States is in danger of falling behind if it fails to adapt to our changing world The memory and recall strategies of traditional testing are no longer adequate to equip our students with the skills they need to excel in the global economy Instead teachers need to engage students in deeper learning assessing their ability to use higher order skills Skills like synthesizing information understanding evidence and critical problem solving are not achieved when we teach to multiple choice exams Examples in Beyond the Bubble Test paint a useful picture of how schools can begin to supplement traditional tests with something that works better This book provides new perspectives on current performance assessment research plus an incisive look at what s possible at the local and state levels Linda Darling Hammond with a team of leading scholars bring together lessons learned new directions and solid recommendations into a single readily accessible compendium Beyond the Bubble Test situates the current debate on performance assessment within the context of testing in the United States This comprehensive resource also looks beyond our U S borders to Singapore Hong Kong and other places whose reform mindedness can serve as an example to us Place, Not Race Sheryll Cashin, 2014-05-06 From a nationally recognized expert a fresh and original argument for bettering affirmative action Race based affirmative action had been declining as a factor in university admissions even before the recent spate of related cases arrived at the Supreme Court Since Ward Connerly kickstarted a state by state political mobilization against affirmative action in the mid 1990s the percentage of four year public colleges that consider racial or ethnic status in admissions has fallen from 60 percent to 35 percent Only 45 percent of private colleges still explicitly consider race with elite schools more likely to do so although they too have retreated For law professor and civil rights activist Sheryll Cashin this isn t entirely bad news because as she argues affirmative action as currently practiced does little to help disadvantaged people The truly disadvantaged black and brown children trapped in high poverty environs are not getting the quality schooling they need in part because backlash and wedge politics undermine any possibility for common sense public policies Using place instead of race in diversity programming she writes will better amend the structural disadvantages endured by many children of color while enhancing the possibility that we might one day move past the racial resentment that affirmative action engenders In Place Not Race Cashin reimagines affirmative action and champions place based policies arguing that college applicants who have thrived despite exposure to neighborhood or school poverty are deserving of special consideration Those blessed to have come of age in poverty free havens are not Sixty years since the historic decision we re undoubtedly far from meeting the promise of Brown v Board of Education but Cashin offers a new framework for true inclusion for the millions of children who live separate and unequal lives Her proposals include making standardized tests optional replacing merit based financial aid with need based financial aid and recruiting high achieving students from overlooked places among other steps that encourage cross racial alliances and social mobility A call for action toward the long overdue promise of equality Place Not Race persuasively shows how the social costs of racial preferences actually outweigh any of the marginal benefits when effective race neutral alternatives are available

Who Gets In? Rebecca Zwick,2017-05-15 On the disputed topic of U S college admissions everyone agrees that this high stakes competition is unfair But few agree on what a fair process would be Stressing transparency in evaluating applicants Rebecca Zwick assesses the goals and criteria of different admissions policies and shows how they can fail to produce the desired results Normal Instructor and Teachers World ,1924

The Role of Letter-Speech Sound Integration in Typical and Atypical Reading Development Jurgen Tijms,Silvia Brem,Gorka Fraga González,Iliana I. Karipidis,2020-07-24 Fluency is the quintessence of effective reading To obtain socio economic success fluent reading is of primordial importance and reading is considered a crucial marker of an individual s life course Approximately 5% of children are affected by developmental dyslexia exhibiting inaccurate word recognition spelling phonological decoding and most importantly severely dysfluent reading which remains as their most characterizing and persistent deficit Unable to attain society s literacy demands individuals with dyslexia are at severe risk for adverse academic economic and psychosocial consequences Recently it has been posed that the development of automatic letter speech sound LSS integration is critical in the acquisition of fluent reading skills and in particular that a failure to develop automatic LSS integration results in an impairment of reading fluency In support neurocognitive research has suggested that the development of automatized processing of LSS associations is an essential step in the formation of a functional neural network for reading Furthermore both neurocognitive and behavioural studies have suggested a less efficient LSS integration in children with dyslexia than in typical readers Finally results from intervention studies have suggested that training LSS might be a promising approach to ameliorate dysfluent reading in children with dyslexia Nonetheless there is still a considerable gap of knowledge in our understanding of the mechanisms by which learning LSS associations relate to dys fluent reading

Tienken,2020-10-30 The School Reform Landscape Reloaded More Fear Myths and Lies peels back the curtain of school reform to examine the tensions that exist between the democratic and equitable system of public education and the emerging dual system based on elite interests aimed at profit making and decreasing education equity The author takes in depth and controversial look at school reform since the launch of Sputnik I Education reform events proposals and policies are examined through the lens of progressivist philosophy and critical social theory Some of the issues and policies critiqued include the neoliberal corporate influence on education the Sputnik myth A Nation At Risk standardization charter schools and other relevant topics The author provides an evidence based view of the free market reform ideas and he pierces the veil of the new reform policies to find that they are not built upon empirical evidence but instead rest solidly on foundations of myth fear and lies Ideas for a new set of reform policies based on empirical evidence and supportive of a unitary equitable and democratic system of education are
