Editing and Extracting Audio and Adding Audio Tracks and Voice Recordings

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the reproduction of copyrighted material. The person using this equipment and software is liable for any infringement.

Editing audio

You can edit the audio within a video clip or adjust the audio of added audio tracks. From the Audio Inspector adjust volume or apply a fade in or fade out effect. Press A to open the Audio Inspector pane or double click on the clip.

Pressing the down arrow and selecting Audio adjustments will also open the Inspector.

A note on Ducking [change audio priority over competing clips]
[As an example,] you recorded a commentary over a video clip and your recording needs to be louder than the audio in the video clip. Double click on the clip that has the audio you want to be more prevalent (your voice recording). By default the volume of the ducked tracks is reduced 15% of the original volume. Drag the ducking slider to the right or left if to adjust.

Add audio to the iMovie project

Add audio in three ways as follows. Audio cannot be added to the Event Library; it is added directly onto your Project. After audio is added, move the audio track by dragging the purple or green box that contains the audio to a desired location in the project. To crop the clip, drag the endpoint to the left. For additional editing press A to open the Audio Inspector pane or double click on the clip. To delete the clip, select and press delete.

1. To add sound effects click on the Music and Sound Effects button  below the viewer. Select a loop or jingle from the iMovie Sound Effects or the iLife Sound Effects pane. Double click to preview. Drag the track onto the clip in the project. If you have your own audio clip, drag it from its location (i.e. USB drive, iTunes Library, IMC Public folder) onto you project where you want it to begin. NOTE: You may need to shrink the iMovie window to display the desktop to locate the file to drag.

A green bar indicates the audio track was added. Preview to consider adjusting the original sound in the movie clip or the added soundtrack.
