Autoimmunencephalitis, Autoimmune-Encephalopathy, Mild Encephalitis Karl Bechter,David Brown,Souhel

Najjar,2019-08-12 Growing evidence derived from cerebrospinal fluid CSF neuropathological imaging genetic and epidemiological studies link neuroinflammation and immune dysregulation to a subset of individuals with a variety of severe mental disorders SMDs including affective and non affective psychotic disorders Further the recent discoveries of neuronal surface antibodies NSAs in autoimmune encephalitis AE presenting with diverse neuropsychiatric disorders such as psychosis and cognitive decline among many others provides further support to the notion that CNS autoimmunity and neuroinflammation can contribute to the neurobiology of psychiatric disturbances Further these immune mechanisms may contribute to a subset of patients currently diagnosed as having treatment resistant SMDs such as schizophrenia and major depressive disorder Additionally mounting data indicate that various infections can serve as an immunological trigger of aberrant immune responses presumably by causing release of excess neural antigen thereby giving rise to NSAs or aberrant immune cellular responses to give rise to primary or secondary psychiatric disorders such as schizophrenia and those associated with AE respectively Collectively these findings support the mild encephalitis hypothesis of SMD The significant overlap among AE associated psychosis systemic autoimmune disorder associated psychosis and psychotic disorders associated with pathological processes involving inflammation and immune dysregulation has also prompted some authors to adopt the term autoimmune psychosis AP This term reflects that this psychosis subtype is mechanistically linked to complex neuroimmune and inflammatory signalling abnormalities that can be responsive to early immunomodulatory treatment It also suggests that a subset of AP might represent an incomplete or forme fruste subtype of AE presenting with dominant or pure psychiatric symptoms mimicking primary psychiatric illnesses Because data indicate that delayed diagnosis and treatment may lead to permanent sequelae early recognition of AP utilizing neurodiagnostic workup e g CSF analysis neuroimaging and EEG and its early treatment with appropriate immunotherapy are paramount to a meaningful recovery This eBook will provide an overview of the current knowledge and research areas from epidemiology risk factors and diagnosis to the management of these conditions in this rapidly emerging field helping to bridge the gaps in knowledge that currently exist in the disciplines of Psychiatry Neurology and Neuroimmunology

The nineteenth century witnessed a series of revolutions in the production and circulation of images. From lithographs and engraved reproductions of paintings to daguerreotypes, stereoscopic views, and mass produced sculptures, works of visual art became available in a wider range of media than ever before. But the circulation and reproduction of artworks also raised new questions about the legal rights of painters, sculptors, engravers, photographers, architects, collectors, publishers, and subjects of representation such as sitters in paintings or photographs. Copyright and patent laws tussled with informal cultural norms and business strategies as individuals and groups attempted to exert some degree of control over these visual creations. With contributions by art historians, legal scholars, historians of publishing, and specialists of painting, photography, sculpture, and graphic arts, this rich collection of essays explores the relationship between intellectual property laws and the cultural, economic, and technological factors that transformed the pictorial landscape during the nineteenth century. This book will be valuable reading for historians of art and visual culture, legal scholars who work on the history of copyright and patent law, and literary scholars and historians who work in the field of book history. It will also resonate with anyone interested in current debates about the circulation and control of images in our digital age.
