To Whom It May Concern:

I've been Christopher Bell's manager for the past 15 months at Palm, Inc. While I wish him only the best and fully understand the business conditions, which precipitate this move, I'm truly sorry to see him leave our organization. It has been a pleasure having Christopher as part of the Platform Communications Team.

Christopher is a professional web developer of the highest caliber, who meticulously developed, formatted, edited and managed critical user documentation and content for one of Palm's premier internet properties, PalmOS.com. Our internal customers; management and personnel in tech support, engineering, training/education, and other departments all praised his work.

Christopher is an innovative self-starter, who excels in a high-level of autonomy and accountability. He is punctual and typically exceeds expectations. Of his many skills, his ability to foster relationships cross-functionally in an ever changing, fast-paced environment has proven to be extremely beneficial to our team. He handles pressure well and is adept at problem identification and resolution. Whether the situation calls for roll out of a site redesign, data migration, server monitoring, or the creation of content on our PalmOS.com site, Christopher not only met these extremely tight deadlines, but also often beat them. At the same time he continued to produce a stellar, user experience to support our more than 150,000+ developer community who look to the site as the primary support resource to aid in their development efforts for the Palm OS platform. These are just a few examples, which highlight Christopher's superior skills and admirable work ethics.

Christopher is an invaluable asset to any technical communications department, and I highly recommend hiring him. If you'd like to discuss his attributes in more detail, please don't hesitate to contact me at 408.878.1934 or sidney_griffin@corp.palm.com

Sincerely,

Sidney G. Griffin Jr.
