Churella,1998-08-03 This overview of the leading locomotive producers in the United States during the twentieth century shows how they responded to a radical technological change the replacement of steam locomotives by diesels The locomotive industry provides a valuable case study of business practices and dramatic shifts in innovation patterns since two companies General Motors and General Electric that had no traditional ties to locomotive production demolished established steam locomotive manufacturers Albert Churella uses many previously untapped sources to illustrate how producers responded to technological change particularly between the 1920s and the 1960s Companies discussed include the American Locomotive Company ALCo the Baldwin Locomotive Works the Lima Locomotive Works Fairbanks Morse the Electro Motive Division of General Motors and General Electric A comparative work of business history and the history of technology the book is not a complete history of any locomotive builder nor does it explore the origins of the diesel engine in great detail What it does and does superbly is to demonstrate how managers addressed radical shifts in technology and production methods Churella reveals that managerial culture and corporate organizational routines more than technological competency per se allowed some companies to succeed yet constrained the actions of others He details the shift from small batch custom manufacturing techniques in the steam locomotive industry to mass production methods in the diesel locomotive industry He also explains that chance events and fortuitous technological linkages helped to shape competitive patterns in the locomotive industry     Proceedings of the 14th International Scientific Conference: Computer Aided Engineering Eugeniusz Rusiński,Damian Pietrusiak,2019-03-09 This book presents the proceedings of the 14th International Conference on Computer Aided Engineering collecting the best papers from the event which was held in Wrocław Poland in June 2018 It includes contributions from researchers in computer engineering addressing the applied science and development of the industry and offering up to date information on the development of the key technologies in technology transfer It is divided into the following thematic sections parametric and concurrent design advanced numerical simulations of physical systems integration of CAD CAE systems for machine design presentation of professional CAD and CAE systems presentation of the modern methods of machine testing presentation of practical CAD CAM CAE applications designing and manufacturing of machines and technical systems durability prediction repairs and retrofitting of power equipment strength and thermodynamic analyses of power equipment design and calculation of various types of load carrying structures numerical methods of dimensioning materials handling and long distance transport equipment cranes gantries automotive rail air space and other special vehicles and earth moving machinery CAE integration problems The conference and its proceedings offer a major interdisciplinary forum for researchers and engineers in innovative studies and advances in this dynamic field     American Shortline Railway Guide Edward A.
