Le Singe De Buffon

Charles Wardell Stiles, Mabelle
Blanche Orleman

Le Singe De Buffon:

Science in the Nursery Laurence Talairach-Vielmas, 2011-01-18 This edited collection aims to examine the popularisation of science for children in Britain and France from the middle of the eighteenth century to the end of the Victorian period. It compares and contrasts for the first time popular science works published at the same time in the two countries, focusing both on non-fictional and fictional texts. Starting when children's literature emerged as a genre to the end of the nineteenth century, it addresses the ways in which popular science for children engaged with wider debates and issues concerning such topics as gender or religion. Each individual essay brings home how children's literature revealed contemporary tensions which professional scientists confronted. The wide range of scientific topics examined, from physics and astronomy to natural history and anthropology, offers a large spectrum of types of popular science works for children. The Nomenclature for Man, the Chimpanzee, the Orang-utan, and the Barbary Ape Charles Wardell Stiles, Mabelle Blanche Orleman, 1927

Notes from the Leyden Museum Rijksmuseum van Natuurlijke Historie (Leiden), 1890 I. A Study of the Acid-base Equilibria of Arsphenamine Solutions Elias Elvove, 1924 Evolutionism in Eighteenth-century French Thought Mary Efrosini Gregory, 2008 This book examines how eighteenth-century French theorists Maillet, Montesquieu, La Mettrie, Buffon, Maupertuis, Diderot, Rousseau, and Voltaire addressed evolutionism. Each thinker laid down a building block that would eventually open the door to the mutability of species and a departure from the long-held belief that the chain of beings is fixed. This book describes how the philosophes established a triune relationship among contemporary scientific discoveries, random creationism propelled by the motive and conscious properties of matter, and the notion of the chain of being along with its corollaries, plenitude and continuity. Also addressed is the contemporary debate over whether apes could ever be taught to speak as well as the issue of race and the family of man. Bulletin National Institutes of Health (U.S.), 1925 Primates in History, Myth, Art, and Science Cecilia Veracini, Bernard Wood, 2024-05-15 Non-human primates hereafter just primates play a special role in human societies, especially in regions where modern humans and primates co-exist. Primates feature in myths and legends and in traditional indigenous knowledge. Explorers observed them in the wild and brought them at great cost to Europe. There they were valued as pets and for display; their images featured in art and architecture and where they were literally teased apart by scientists. The international team of contributors to this book draws these different perspectives together to show how primates helped humans better understand their own place in nature. The book will be of interest to undergraduate and graduate students as well as scholars in disciplines ranging from anthropology to art history. Key features: Includes contributions from an international team of historians and natural scientists. Integrates various perspectives and perceptions of non-human primates across time and place. Summarizes the place of non-human primates in science, art, and culture. Includes rare early illustrations. Hygienic Laboratory Bulletin, 1927
