Undergraduate Mathematics for the Life Sciences Glenn Ledder,Jenna P. Carpenter,Timothy D. Comar,2013 There is a gap between the extensive mathematics background that is beneficial to biologists and the minimal mathematics background biology students acquire in their courses The result is an undergraduate education in biology with very little quantitative content New mathematics courses must be devised with the needs of biology students in mind In this volume authors from a variety of institutions address some of the problems involved in reforming mathematics curricula for biology students The problems are sorted into three themes Models Processes and Directions It is difficult for mathematicians to generate curriculum ideas for the training of biologists so a number of the curriculum models that have been introduced at various institutions comprise the Models section Processes deals with taking that great course and making sure it is institutionalized in both the biology department as a requirement and in the mathematics department as a course that will live on even if the creator of the course is no longer on the faculty Directions looks to the future with each paper laying out a case for pedagogical developments that the authors would like to see

Listening to Our Students and Transcending K-12 to Save Our Nation Alec Ostrom,Brian Hack,Don Prentice,2020-01-06 This journey will engage you in dealing with some hard truths and it will take you down a new pathway and new ways of thinking about K 12 education We now live in a nation that is struggling with deep social economic and political conflicts We are all doing our best to resolve these conflicts and to solve the critical challenges that we all face in the Digital Age but our children and young adults are having a very difficult time in dealing with the realities of their young lives We wrote this book because we want to engage all of our readers in each local community in frank honest down to earth practical conversations about our K 12 schools as the foundation for our constitutional democracy Without well educated citizens our government our economy and our society will not survive And this is true regardless of the political beliefs of our readers across the political spectrum
