

Teacher-Friendly Scoring Guide for Narrative Writing

Narrative writing captures a real or imagined experience. It usually contains three primary elements: characters, setting, plot. The writer grabs and holds the reader's attention by developing believable characters and putting them in interesting situations, establishing a clear sense of time and place, weaving in vivid details and plot twists, and creating a central conflict or problem that is resolved in a compelling way. To accomplish that, the writer must apply the key qualities of the mode with skill and confidence.

6 EXCEPTIONAL

- A. Plot: The writer uses sequenced events in words and pictures in a way that makes sense. There is a simple problem and solution.
- B. Characters: The writer creates fresh and original characters who change and learn.
- C. Setting: The writer uses time and place in words and pictures.

5 STRONG

4 REFINING

Leap Writing Scoring Guide:

A Rhetoric of Reflection Kathleen Yancey, 2016-08-15 Reflection in writing studies is now entering a third generation. Dating from the 1970s the first generation of reflection focused on identifying and describing internal cognitive processes assumed to be part of composing. The second generation operating in both classroom and assessment scenes in the 1990s developed mechanisms for externalizing reflection making it visible and thus explicitly available to help writers. Now a third generation of work in reflection is emerging. As mapped by the contributors to A Rhetoric of Reflection this iteration of research and practice is taking up new questions in new sites of activity and with new theories. It comprises attention to transfer of writing knowledge and practice teaching and assessment portfolios linguistic and cultural difference and various media including print and digital. It conceptualizes conversation as a primary reflective medium both inside and outside the classroom and for individuals and collectives and articulates the role that different genres play in hosting reflection. Perhaps most important in the work of this third generation is the identification and increasing appreciation of the epistemic value of reflection of its ability to help make new meanings and of its rhetorical power for both scholars and students. Contributors: Anne Beaufort, Kara Taczak, Liane Robertson, Michael Neal, Heather Ostman, Cathy Leaker, Bruce Horner, Asao B. Inoue, Tyler Richmond, J. A Complete Guide to Rubrics Audrey M. Quinlan, 2012 This book takes a developmental perspective at the use of scoring rubrics to assess student work. Citing developmental characteristics of each age, the author presents examples and adaptations of assessment rubrics on a variety of subjects for teachers from kindergarten through adult college. After a presentation of foundation information on rubrics, separate chapters are devoted to each grade level from primary through adult. Written so that each chapter can be addressed independently, the book provides additional chapters devoted to assessing technological topics and using rubrics with students with special needs. The final chapters provide practical information to help teachers to create their own rubrics and to convert rubric scores to letter grades. An updated annotated listing of recommended rubric websites is included. Grading Students' Classroom Writing: Issues and Strategies
