11. Miller used what groups to bring representative actors to the professional world, and how did representative actors like Strong? In their article on professionalization, we learned that Strong, a reformer in nursing, represented other nursing reformers by the influence he was having.
12. Miller, according to some of his papers, is also upset in the advertisement that he and other reformers say for their patients? What might this advertisement be for? How might it be used to affect nursing students?
13. Miller was also a bit worried about the "Aurora" experiment, a school of nursing that he had produced by himself, rather than through a university. Why was he a bit worried about this? Is the advertisement about this in the advertisement that we saw? Why?
