Firms and the Financial Market

■ Chapter Overview

This chapter provides an overview of U.S. financial markets. Financial markets consist of the institutions that facilitate the transfer of money from investors to companies and individuals. The three principal players in the financial markets are borrowers, savers (i.e., investors), and financial institutions (i.e., intermediaries). There is a wide variety of financial institutions that make up our financial markets, including commercial banks, financial services corporations, insurance companies, investment banks, investment companies, mutual funds and exchange traded funds, hedge funds, and private equity firms.

The purpose of each of these institutions is to bring borrowers and investors together. Borrowers and investors are linked together through the buying and selling of a variety of securities that are traded on financial markets. While there are innumerable types of financial instruments traded on financial markets, most are some form of debt or equity security.
