Carrying Capacity

- In this case
- In the case of the upper population, the carrying capacity is determined by the amount of food available

Carrying Capacity is the number of individuals in a population per unit of space. Factors limiting growth are density-dependent, which are density-dependent in nature. These limiting factors are known as Density-Dependent Factors.

Question: How does a density-dependent limiting factor affect carrying capacity?

1. Challenge: What do you think would happen if a density-dependent limiting factor changed?

Population - both - and - stable

2. Challenge: Suppose a drought led to a half crop in a field, reducing the amount of food available for rabbits. How do you think this would affect carrying capacity?

Population will decrease because there will be a reduction in the amount of food available.

3. Challenge: Now the farmer in the field carrying capacity with drought. Rabbits are still there but the carrying capacity is lower.

4. Challenge: How do you think the amount of food available in the field affects the carrying capacity of the population?

The higher the amount of food available, the higher the carrying capacity will be.

5. Challenge: Why do you think limiting a population's growth decreases the carrying capacity?

The carrying capacity of the population will decrease.

6. Challenge: What do you think would happen if another density-dependent limiting factor changed?
