Tome II usages et polluants

Gérard Graclois, coord.

The illustration depicts a winding river flowing through a landscape. On the left bank, there is a small house at the top, a boat with a person rowing, and a sailboat in the foreground. On the right bank, there is a large industrial building with a prominent red chimney. The river itself shows signs of pollution, with a dark, swirling area in the middle. Various other elements like a small boat with a person, a small structure on the bank, and some trees are scattered throughout the scene.

 the government of New Caledonia launched the co design of the country s first water policy based on a broad consultation that involved 1 out of 600 New Caledonians the locally so called Shared Water Policy The book both presents and assesses the original and broad participatory process used to build the new water policy It does so by crossing different points of view government local managers and customary authorities The book is also devoted to bridging the gap between customary land studies and water policy It seeks a way to weave water representations and customary water management practices into the new policy This experience in a unique decolonisation complex context will inspire policy makers academics managers working on participatory methodologies for more inclusive water policy and governance processes especially in countries where indigenous populations and legal pluralism orders coexist
