Living with Low Vision and Blindness John M. Crandell, Lee W. Robinson, 2007 This book summarizes the findings in the fields of general education and psychology as they relate to vision loss. It is concerned primarily with providing understanding of the many elements that must be considered before a successful rehabilitative and/or an educational program can be developed. This type of understanding is illustrated in the book by examples drawn from experience that the authors have directly observed. Theoretical factors are described that must be considered in the development of a suitable program for a person with specific strengths and weaknesses. Discussions are also included that relate to the meaning and implications of self concept and self esteem in the overall adjustment of individuals with vision loss. Also psychological and sociological theories are evaluated. Of OC the blind, OCO as described in writings such as Kim OCOs The Community of the Blind and Scott OCOs The Making of a Blind Man in terms of their relevance of life adjustment. Weaknesses are identified in the research bases in this field and propose specific research activities that could help alleviate problems. Another focus is on provision of explanations of the origin, development, influence and modification of public attitudes toward blindness and the influence of these attitudes on the adjustment of individuals with blindness. It will be of interest not only to educators and rehabilitation specialists in the field of work for the blind but also to psychologists, social workers, educators and therapists.

Many AI algorithms have reached human level performance and AI agents are replacing humans in most professions. It is predicted that this trend will continue and 30% of work activities in 60% of current occupations will be automated. This success, however, is conditioned on availability of huge annotated datasets to training AI models. Data annotation is a time consuming and expensive task which still is being performed by human workers. Learning efficiently from less data is a next step for making AI more similar to natural intelligence. Transfer learning has been suggested as a remedy to relax the need for data annotation. The core idea in transfer learning is to transfer knowledge across similar tasks and use similarities and previously learned knowledge to learn more efficiently. In this book we provide a brief background on transfer learning and then focus on the idea of transferring knowledge through intermediate embedding spaces. The idea is to couple and relate different learning through embedding spaces that encode task level relations and similarities. We cover various machine learning scenarios and demonstrate that this idea can be used to overcome challenges of zero shot learning few shot learning domain adaptation continual learning lifelong learning and collaborative learning Refractive Keratotomy for Myopia and Astigmatism George O. Waring,1992
