

Human Blood Cell Typing

What divided again, human?

Object

The objective of this activity is to understand how blood is categorized by the American Red Cross using international coding system previously developed and used by the British. The goal is to understand the origin and how the system for categorizing blood is based on antigens. The system for blood categorization also allows that taking donor blood can help effectively address the need for blood to be transfused.

Object 1 – Red Blood Cells and Antigens

	Person with Blood Type A	Person with Blood Type B	Person with Blood Type AB	Person with Blood Type O
Cells with attached antigens
Antibodies present
Cells for the person's own A antibodies
Cells for the person's own B antibodies

- Identify the blood type of the person whose blood is being transfused into the recipient's red blood cells.
- According to Object 1, how many blood types does the donor produce?
 - Donor blood type
- What shape is used in Object 1 to represent an A antigen?
 - A (circle)
- What blood type's anti-A antibodies will form clots if transfused with?
 - Type B red blood cells. Type B antigens are opposite, while type B red blood cells have B antigens on the surface.
