Prior Knowledge Questions (Do these BEFORE using the Gizmo.)

1. Label one of the skulls below as human and the other as a chimpanzee skull.

	Human			Chimpanzee
---	-------	--	---	------------

2. What features did you use to identify which skull was human and which was chimpanzee?

The chimpanzee has a longer skull and larger jaw bone.

Gizmo Warm-up

In 1924, a fossilized skull that looked very similar to a chimp skull was discovered. But the skull most definitely did not belong to a chimp. The location of the foramen magnum—a hole in the skull where the spinal cord exits—indicated that the individual was bipedal, or walked on two legs. This fossil was some of the earliest evidence of human evolution. Using the Human Evolution – Skull Analysis Gizmo, you will discover some of the ways that skulls can be used to learn about human evolution. Start by comparing two modern hominids: a human and a chimpanzee.

1. Examine the Front view of the Homo sapiens (modern human) skull, use the Select skull menu to examine the same view of the Pan troglodytes (chimp) skull.

Then,

How do the skulls compare?

The human skull has a smaller jaw, smaller teeth, and a larger forehead. Chimpanzees also have a larger nose.

Human Evolution Skull Analysis:

The Evolution Delusion Bart Rask, 2021-09-01 Does the field of evolution differ from other sciences The author a reviewer for a major medical journal scrutinized hundreds of scientific references in evolutionary literature adopting the same standards used for studies submitted for medical publication The data show that there are two types of evolution microevolution and macroevolution with a clear boundary between them based upon the presence and absence of empirical evidence respectively The surprising results show that there is a universal disconnect between the data and the conclusions that claim to show the larger changes of macroevolution The author reveals patterns of deviations from standard scientific methods in these studies For the first time evolutionary data have been summarized to describe both what evolution can and cannot accomplish The author shows the reader how to recognize the different ways in which the evidence for microevolution within and between some species differs from the unsupported macroevolution of most species Previous critiques of macroevolution have been debunked by advocates who have cited a multitude of scientific studies This book goes beyond previous critiques by directly addressing the data from these studies to see if they do in fact support macroevolution focused conclusions Many expert counterarguments against this book's thesis are presented and examined in the context of scientific research to reassure the reader that the author has left no stone unturned in the macroevolution debate A theory is proposed as to why there may be no empirical evidence for macroevolution The book concludes with a section entitled What we see differently There the author shows the reader the differences in perspective between the evolutionist and macroevolution critic as they look at and interpret the very same set of data

Rethinking Human Evolution Jeffrey H.

Schwartz, 2022-11-01 Contributors from a range of disciplines consider the disconnect between human evolutionary studies and the rest of evolutionary biology The study of human evolution often seems to rely on scenarios and received wisdom rather than theory and methodology with each new fossil or molecular analysis interpreted as supporting evidence for the presumed lineage of human ancestry We might wonder why we should pursue new inquiries if we already know the story Is paleoanthropology an evolutionary science Are analyses of human evolution biological In this volume contributors from disciplines that range from paleoanthropology to philosophy of science consider the disconnect between human evolutionary studies and the rest of evolutionary biology All of the contributors reflect on their own research and its disciplinary context considering how their fields of inquiry can move forward in new ways The goal is to encourage a more multifaceted intellectual environment for the understanding of human evolution Topics discussed include paleoanthropology's history of procedural idiosyncrasies the role of mind and society in our evolutionary past humans as large mammals rather than a special case genomic analyses computational approaches to phylogenetic reconstruction descriptive morphology versus morphometrics and integrating insights from archaeology into the interpretation of human fossils Contributors Markus Bastir Fred L Bookstein Claudine Cohen Richard G Delisle Robin Dennell Rob DeSalle John de Vos Emma M Finestone Huw S
