Recipe for Romance Anitra Lynn McLeod, He'd do almost anything to get recognition To prove himself capable of becoming a head chef and earning a coveted Michelin star Elliott Cole had worked sixteen hour days for almost a year to restore Robles to its former glory Only instead of giving him the coveted position the owner gives the fruits of Elliott's labors to another chef one who certainly doesn't deserve a second chance Drinking had destroyed Luca Brandt's life costing him more than just his career A month in rehab and a dedicated sponsor got him back on shaky legs but a fresh start at a new restaurant could keep him on the wagon Despite his battered reputation Luca still had his name and the owner of Robles wants a name With a tenuous grip on sobriety the only way Luca can make things work is if he keeps Elliott in his kitchen Furious but no fool Elliott stays thinking he can ride on Luca's coattails to a coveted head chef position only to discover there's a lot more to the man behind the scandal that destroyed a once fashionable restaurant When their strong working relationship turns into a powerful friendship with the promise of something more will Elliott and Luca find a way to have it all or will they let one another go This contemporary enemies to lovers workplace slow burn gay romance contains one determined chef who lacks the ruthlessness necessary to succeed at all costs a humbled chef discovering there's more to life than fame and fortune an unscrupulous restaurant owner a steadfast sponsor who believes in second chances and a lot of talk about food before a delicious happily ever after 56 000 words or 224 pages Consumer

Tribes Avi Shankar, Bernard Cova, Robert Kozinets, 2012-06-25 Marketing and consumer research has traditionally conceptualized consumers as individuals who exercise choice in the marketplace as individuals not as a class or a group However an important new perspective is now emerging that rejects the individualistic view and focuses on the reality that human life is essentially social and that who we are is an inherently social phenomenon It is the tribus the many little groups we belong to that are fundamental to our experience of life Tribal Marketing shows that it is not individual consumption of products that defines our lives but rather that this activity actually facilitates meaningful social relationships The social links social relationships are more important than the things brands etc The aim of this book is therefore to offer a systematic overview of the area that has been defined as cultures of consumption consumption microcultures brand cultures brand tribes and brand communities It is though these that students of marketing and marketing practitioners can begin to genuinely understand the real drivers of consumer behaviour It will be essential to everyone who needs to understand the new paradigm in consumer research brand management and communications management Fodor's San Diego Fodor's
