international and interdisciplinary exploration of the role cinema plays in contemporary life and culture and the complex and fascinating relationship between screen images and our changing concepts of personal and national identity Rejecting the compartmentalisation that has traditionally marked film studies and confronting an impressively eclectic range of material fifteen essays by leading academics from around the world cut across divergent cultures languages and genres mainstream Hollywood rubs shoulders with low budget Icelandic or Sicilian cinema and the popular and the esoteric feature alongside each other In this way the reader is offered a stimulating overview which directly addresses the contradictions and ambiguities inherent in the relationship between film and identity and reveals the vibrancy of contemporary film debate to which The Seeing Century makes an important and thought provoking contribution

The Vocation of Writing Marc Crépon, 2018-04-01 Explores how violence structures language and the writing of literature and philosophy Within the violence our societies must confront today exists a dimension proper to language Anyone who has been through the educational system for example recognizes how language not only shapes and models us but also imposes itself upon us During the twentieth century this system revealed how language can condemn one to a certain death In The Vocation of Writing philosopher Marc Crépon explores this dimension of language convinced that the node of all violence pertains first to language and how we make use of it Crépon focuses on Kafka Levinas Singer and Derrida not only because each rose against commandeering language in order to warn against the next massacres but also because their work affirms the vocation of writing that which makes literature and philosophy the final weapon for unmasking the violence and hatred that language bears at its heart To affirm the vocation of writing is to turn language against itself to defuse its murderous potentialities by opening it toward exchange responsibility and humanity when the latter fixes the other and the world as its goals

New York Nouveau Sara Kippur, 2025-08-12 Postwar French writers were at the vanguard of global literary innovation from the experimental minimalism of the Nouveau Roman to the literary games of the OuLiPo but less often appreciated is the extent to which they worked closely with US editors and translators published actively with American presses and often theorized transatlantic connections within their work In this exciting new work Sara Kippur proposes a new French literary history that traces the deep connections between postwar literary experimentalism and the New York publishing industry compellingly arguing that US based editors publishers producers professors and translators crucially intervened to shape French literature While Kippur attends closely to well known writers such as Marguerite Duras Samuel Beckett Eugène Ionesco Georges Perec and Alain Robbe-Grillet she also amplifies the voices of those who have been less visible though no less relevant including women whose contributions have not received proper credit but who helped to foster a sense of new possibilities for twentieth century French writing With these untold histories stitched together in this book through new archival discoveries from special collections and personal archives on both sides of the Atlantic Kippur begins to dismantle rigid notions of canonicity authorship and national literature

The English-speaking World ,1923 World of Our Fathers Irving Howe,2017-10-31 The National Book Award winning New York Times bestselling history of Yiddish speaking immigrants on the Lower East Side and beyond In the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries two million Jewish immigrants poured into America leaving places like Warsaw or the Russian shtetls to pass through Ellis Island and start over in the New World This is a brilliant account of their stories The New York Times Though some moved on to Philadelphia Chicago and other points west many of these new citizens settled in New York City especially in Manhattan s teeming tenements Like others before and after they struggled to hold on to the culture and community they brought from their homelands all the while striving to escape oppression and find opportunity They faced poverty and crime but also experienced the excitement of freedom and previously unimaginable possibilities Over the course of decades from the 1880s to the 1920s they were assimilated into the great melting pot as the Yiddish language slowly gave way to English work was found in sweatshops children were sent to both religious and secular schools and for the lucky ones the American dream was attained if not in the first generation then by the second or third

Nominated for a National Book Critics Circle Award World of Our Fathers explores the many aspects of this time and place in history from the political to the cultural In this compelling American story Irving Howe addresses everything from the story of socialism the hardships of the ghetto and the tragic Triangle Shirtwaist Factory fire that killed scores of garment workers to the Borscht Belt resorts of the Catskills in colorful and dramatic detail Both meticulously researched and lively it is a stirring evocation of the adventure and trauma of migration Newsweek
