But because the novel reflects a broad range of human experiences and historical events it is the ideal medium for learning about contemporary social issues. This book helps educators learn how to use the novel in courses in English, the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, and professional studies. The book is divided into broad sections on general education classes, multiculturalism, literature classes, humanities courses, classes in social, behavioral, and political sciences, and professional studies such as social work and teacher training. Each section includes chapters written by gifted teachers and provides a wealth of theoretical and practical information. While the book examines major canonical works such as Hard Times, Billy Budd, and Invisible Man, it also looks at graphic novels, science fiction, and popular contemporary works such as Finishing School and Jarhead. Chapters reflect the personal successes of their authors and cite works for further reading.

Handbook of Literacy and Technology David Reinking, Michael C. McKenna, Linda D. Labbo, Ronald D. Kieffer, 1998-04-01

The major shift going on today in the technologies of reading and writing raises important questions about conventional conceptions of literacy and its role in education, society, and culture. What are the important characteristics of electronic forms of reading and writing, distinguishing them from printed forms? To what extent and in what ways is literacy being transformed by new technologies? This central question is addressed in this volume from diverse multidisciplinary perspectives. The contributing authors focus on a guiding question in one of the following areas, which correspond to the major sections of the book:

- Transforming Texts What are the new differences between printed and electronic texts, and what are the implications of new textual forms for defining literacy, especially in regard to teaching and learning in schools?
- Transforming Readers and Writers How do electronic reading and writing change conceptualizations of literacy development from childhood through adulthood?
- Transforming Classrooms and Schools What are the effects of introducing new reading and writing technologies into schools and classrooms?
- Transforming Instruction How can instruction be adapted in response to the changing literacy landscape, and how can teachers and students exploit forms of reading and writing to enhance teaching and learning?
- Transforming Society What are the broad societal implications of the increasing prevalence of electronic forms of reading and writing?
- Transforming Literacy Research What are the questions that must be addressed as digital reading and writing become more common, and what approaches to research will be most useful in addressing those questions?

This volume is the result of an interactive process. The contributors met as a group to discuss drafts of their chapters at a one-day meeting convened and sponsored by the National Reading Research Center, and had read each others' chapters prior to this gathering. That meeting was followed by a two-day conference attended by approximately 180 researchers, educators, and policymakers who responded to an open invitation to present papers and to attend sessions focusing on the six major themes of the book. Contributors then revised their chapters based on interactions with fellow contributors, conference participants, and volume editors. Thus, this work is more than just a compilation of the individual authors' views. Rather, it represents a synthesis of a broad range of current thinking about how literacy is being and may be transformed by technology Talking, Drawing, Writing Martha Horn, Mary Ellen Giacobbe, 2007 The book's lessons are organized by topic and include oral storytelling drawing writing words assessment introducing booklets and moving writers forward Based on the authors work in urban kindergarten and first grade classes the essence and structure of many of the lessons lend themselves to adaptation through fifth grade Jacket The Literacy of Play and Innovation Christiane Wood, 2019-01-15 The Literacy of Play and Innovation provides a portrait of what innovative education looks like from a literacy perspective Through an in depth case study of a maker school's innovative design in particular of four early childhood educator's classrooms this book demonstrates that children's inspiration curiosity and creativity is a direct result of the school environment Presenting a unique data driven model of literacy play and innovation taking the maker movement beyond STEM education this book helps readers understand literacy learning through making and the creative approaches embedded in early literacy classroom practices
