

News Writing

More Tips:

It's About People

News stories are all about how people are affected. In your sports story, you might spend some time focusing on one or more individuals, or on how the team morale is doing, or how the supporters are feeling.

Have an Angle

Most stories can be presented using a particular angle or "slant". This is a standard technique and isn't necessarily bad - it can help make the purpose of the story clear and give it focus. Examples of angles you could use for your sports story:

"Team Tackles National Competition"

"Big Ask for First-Year Coach"

"Local Team in Need of Funds"

Keep it Objective

You are completely impartial. If there is more than one side to the story, cover them all. Don't use "I" and "me" unless you are quoting someone.

Quote People

For example: "We're really excited about this competition," says coach Bob Dobalina, "It's the highest target we've ever set ourselves".

Don't Get "Flowery"

Keep your sentences and paragraphs short. Don't use lots of heavily descriptive language. When you've finished, go through the entire story and try to remove any words which aren't completely necessary.
