Interactive Activity: Divisions of the Nervous System

Part A - Structural Classifications of the Nervous System

We have only one nervous system, but, because of its complexity, it is difficult to consider all its parts at the same time. So, to simplify its study, we divide it in terms of its structure (structural classifications) and in terms of its activities (functional classifications).

In this activity, we will divide the nervous system into the two structural divisions. Drag the correct description to the appropriate nervous system division box.

Part B - Functional Classifications of the Peripheral Nervous System
