Making it comparable David Waddington, Peter Nentwig, Sascha Schanze, 2007 One of the most significant developments in school education in recent years has been the development and introduction of standards a subject of considerable controversy This book is the result of a symposium held in Kiel a symposium that was arranged by two leading science education groups one at IPN Leibniz Institute for Science Education at the University of Kiel in Germany and the other at the University of York UK The seminar brought together experts from 15 countries These countries include those that have extensive experience with the effects of standards on the educational system on individual schools and teachers and on students Other reports concern countries which are introducing them shortly and yet others on countries that are in the early stages of development of standards 11 are from Europe and the others are from Australia Israel Taiwan and the U S The book is divided into three parts In Part A two of the organizers set the scene describing the reasons for arranging the symposium and outlining the preparations and the work done at the meeting Part B contains 17 reports from the 15 countries and in Part C there are two summaries analysing the conclusions taken from two different vantage points The controversies surrounding standards remain However this book gives a succinct and authoritative overall account of the advantages and disadvantages of their introduction taken from the experiences of many countries

Test Policy and Test Performance: Education, Language, and Culture

Bernard R. Gifford, 2012-12-06 Bernard R Gifford In the United States the standardized test has become one of the major sources of information for reducing uncertainty in the determination of individual merit and in the allocation of merit based educational training and employment opportunities Most major institutions of higher education require applicants to supplement their records of academic achievements with scores on standardized tests Similarly in the workplace as a condition of employment or assignment to training programs more and more employers are requiring prospective employees to sit for standardized tests In short with increasing frequency and intensity individual members of the political economy are required to transmit to the opportunity marketplace scores on standardized examinations that purport to be objective measures of their abilities talents and potential In many instances these test scores are the only signals about their skills that job applicants are permitted to send to prospective employers THE NATIONAL COMMISSION ON TESTING AND PUBLIC POLICY In view of the importance of these issues to our current national agenda it was proposed that the Human Rights and Governance and the Education and Culture Programs of the Ford Foundation support the establishment of a blue ribbon National Commission on Testing and Public Policy to investigate some of the major problems as well as the untapped opportunities created by recent trends in the use of standardized tests particularly in the workplace and in schools
