National Assessment Of Climate Change Impacts Report:

The US National Climate Assessment Katharine Jacobs, Susanne Moser, James Buizer, 2016-08-09 This book offers valuable climate policy and climate assessment lessons depicting what it takes to build a sustained climate assessment process It explores the third U S National Climate Assessment NCA3 report as compared with previous US national climate assessments from both a process and content perspective The U S Global Change Research Program is required by law to produce a National Climate Assessment report every four years and these reports provide a comprehensive evaluation of climate science as well as observed and projected climate impacts on a variety of sectors As the book describes a key contribution of the NCA3 approach is a far more deliberate interdisciplinary process as well as an engagement strategy that brought hundreds of public and private sector stakeholders into the assessment community Among its most important conceptual contributions was an explicit focus on building the infrastructure to conduct better assessments over time and an experimental approach to analysis of the impacts of climate on cross sectoral systems and inter locking and cascading effects across sectors Readers may explore innovations such as the development of regional climatologies and projections for every region of the US as well as the development of the Global Change Information System The book also highlights the need for decision makers to be part of the assessment process in order for assessment findings to be truly useful from a decision maker s perspective Many lessons have been learned by the NCA3 authors that can be useful in future assessments and adaptation processes both within the US and internationally This book passes on such lessons and includes an evaluation of the role of state climate assessments in ongoing national assessment processes Climate Change Impacts to the United States United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, 2003 The U.S. national climate change assessment United States. Congress. House. Committee on Energy and Commerce. Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks Alexander E. Farrell, Jill Professor Jäger, 2010-09-30 As environmental challenges grow larger in scale and implications it is increasingly important to apply the best scientific knowledge in the decisionmaking process Editors Farrell and J ger present environmental assessments as the bridge between the expert knowledge of scientists and engineers on the one hand and decisionmakers on the other When done well assessments have a positive impact on public policy the strategic decisions of private firms and ultimately the quality of life for many people This book is the result of an international interdisciplinary research project to analyze past environmental assessments and understand how their design influenced their effectiveness in bringing scientific evidence and insight into the decisionmaking process The case studies in the book feature a wide range of regional and global risks including ozone depletion transboundary air pollution and climate change Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks offers several important contributions It provides a clear account of the choices faced in the design of environmental assessments and a clear description of the lessons learned from past assessments It illustrates why assessments are social processes not simply reports And while they identify no universal one size fits all design the authors find that to be effective environmental assessments must be viewed by those who produce and use them as being salient credible in their scientific support and legitimate or fair in design and execution Climate Change and Global Food Security Rattan Lal,Norman Uphoff,B.A. Stewart,David O. Hansen,2005-05-26 In order to feed their burgeoning populations developing nations will need to double cereal production by the year 2050 This increase will have to come from existing land as little potential exists for bringing new land under cultivation a daunting prospect when one realizes that increased use and significantly higher concentrations of carbon Senators' Perspectives on Global Warming United States.
