ACCOUNT -1

The news anchor sat straight, reporting only the facts of the event that had just occurred. There were reports that something had hit the World Trade Center, flames were shooting from the building, and rescue crews were beginning to arrive. Quickly, reports began coming in that it had been a plane. The reporter spoke calmly, describing the scene to viewers as he had heard it from people calling the news station. Suddenly, video of the burning building came on the screen, and the reporter's eyes widened. He knew he would be reporting on this story for a long time to come.

ACCOUNT -2

Something has happened! There was a noise unlike any I had ever heard before! There is smoke billowing out of the World Trade Center, and there was a loud explosion. All I can see is smoke and fire. The sound of rescue sirens is getting closer, but none of us seem to know what exactly is going on. The smoke is getting thicker, and there seems to be a hole in the side of the building. Did something just explode inside of the building? What caused this fire? Wait. Someone is telling me there was a plane. How could there be a plane in the building? We need to get away from here!

TITANIC SINKS

Analyzing First & Secondhand Accounts

ACCOUNT -1

After striking an iceberg, the Titanic sank in the early morning hours of April 15, 1912. Within minutes of hitting the iceberg, ship builders knew that the damage was too severe, and the ship would sink. As water filled the lower levels, the crew calmly guided passengers to lifeboats on the deck. Women and children were boarded onto the lifeboats first, with most passengers carrying only a coat and a life jacket. Many third class passengers were unable to reach the deck where the lifeboats were. In addition, there were not enough lifeboats onboard to save all the passengers. Over 1,500 people died when the ship sank that night.

ACCOUNT -2

An awful crashing sound came from below my bed. Perhaps later, I could hear water pouring into my cabin. Jumping down from my bunk bed, my feet were covered in ice cold water. I grabbed my backpack and headed for the stairwell to the deck. I checked the main set of stairs, but they were blocked by a locked gate. I raced to the other stair, only to find them locked. A group of other third class passengers had gathered and were calling out for help. We could see the water rising, and the only way we were going to survive was to break the gates open. Frantic, we began looking for another way to the boat deck. By the time we found our way, it was too late. The lifeboats were gone, and we knew the only way we would be able to save ourselves was to swim in the frigid waters.
