Behavioral Science & Policy: Volume 2, Issue 1 Craig Fox, Sim B. Sitkin, 2016-11-22

The success of nearly all public and private sector policies hinges on the behavior of individuals groups and organizations Today such behaviors are better understood than ever thanks to a growing body of practical behavioral science research However policymakers often are unaware of behavioral science findings that may help them craft and execute more effective and efficient policies The pages of this new journal will become a meeting ground a place where scientists and non scientists can encounter clearly described behavioral research that can be put into action By design the scope of BSP is broad with topics spanning health care financial decisionmaking energy and the environment education and culture justice and ethics and work place practices Contributions will be made by researchers with expertise in psychology sociology law behavioral economics organization science decision science and marketing The journal is a key offering of the Behavioral Science Policy Association in partnership with the Brookings Institution The mission of BSPA is to foster dialog between social scientists policymakers and other practitioners in order to promote the application of rigorous empirical behavioral science in ways that serve the public interest BSPA does not advance a particular agenda or political perspective The first issue's contents follow Behavioral Science Policy vol 2 no 1 Table of Contents Editors Note Spotlight Pre Kindergarten Interventions American Policy on Early Childhood Education Development Many Programs Great Hopes Modest Prospects Ron Haskins Evidence for the Benefits of State Prekindergarten Programs Myth Misrepresentation Dale C Farran Mark W Lipsey Reforming Head Start for the 21st Century A Policy Prescription Sara Mead Ashley LiBetti Mitchel Home Visiting Programs Four Evidence Based Lessons for Policymakers Cynthia Osborne Launching Preschool 2.0 A Road Map to High Quality Public Programs at Scale Christina Weiland A 10 Year Strategy of Increased Coordination Comprehensive Investments in Early Child Development Ajay Chaudry Jane Waldfogel Reimagining Accountability in K-12 Education Brian P Gill Jennifer S Lerner Paul Meosky Featured Topic Healthy Through Habit Interventions for Initiating Maintaining Health Behavioral Change Wendy Wood David Neal Making the Truth Stick the Myths Fade Lessons from Cognitive Psychology Norbert Schwarz Eryn Newman William Leach Editorial Policy

Land Law and the Extractive Industries Victoria R Nalule, 2021-08-26 This book analyses the nexus between land access and the extractive industries in Africa specifically highlighting the gaps in energy land and mining laws and the practical solutions needed to settle the increasing number of land disputes in resource rich areas Access to land is essential for the successful operation of energy and mining projects However there are often social environmental and economic issues associated with acquiring land for these projects Socially many people are relocated economically local communities are not given adequate compensation environmentally pollution negatively impacts on the agricultural and fishing industries relied on by over 80% of the local communities Against this stark background and drawing from the author's fieldwork research this book addresses the important question of whether the different land tenure systems coupled with administration and registration procedures are adequate to address the increasing land disputes in oil and mineral rich African countries

Randomized Control Trials in the Field of Development Florent Bédécarrats, Isabelle Guérin, François Roubaud, 2020-09-17 In October 2019 Abhijit Banerjee Esther Duflo and Michael Kremer jointly won the 51st Sveriges Riksbank Prize in Economic Sciences in Memory of Alfred Nobel for their experimental approach to alleviating global poverty But what is the exact scope of their experimental method known as randomized control trials RCTs Which sorts of questions are RCTs able to address and which do they fail to answer The first of its kind Randomized Control Trials in the Field of Development A Critical Perspective provides answers to these questions explaining how RCTs work what they can achieve why they sometimes fail how they can be improved and why other methods are both useful and necessary Bringing together leading specialists in the field from a range of backgrounds and disciplines economics econometrics mathematics statistics political economy socioeconomics anthropology philosophy global health epidemiology and medicine it presents a full and coherent picture of the main strengths and weaknesses of RCTs in the field of development Looking beyond the epistemological political and ethical differences underlying many of the disagreements surrounding RCTs it explores the implementation of RCTs on the ground outside of their ideal theoretical conditions and reveals some unsuspected uses and effects their disruptive potential but also their political uses The contributions uncover the implicit worldview that many RCTs draw on and disseminate and probe the gap between the method's narrow scope and its success while also proposing improvements and alternatives Without disputing the contribution of RCTs to scientific knowledge Randomized Control Trials in the Field of Development warns against the potential dangers of their excessive use arguing that the best use for RCTs is not necessarily that which immediately springs to mind Written in plain language this book offers experts and laypeople alike a unique opportunity to come to an informed and reasoned judgement on RCTs and what they can bring to development

Too Many Children Left Behind Bruce Bradbury, Miles Corak, Jane Waldfogel, Elizabeth Washbrook, 2015-06-30 The belief that with hard work and determination all children have the opportunity to succeed in life is a cherished part of the American Dream Yet increased inequality in America has made that dream more difficult for many to obtain In Too Many Children Left Behind an international team of social scientists assesses how social mobility varies in the United States compared with Australia Canada and the United Kingdom Bruce Bradbury Miles Corak Jane Waldfogel and Elizabeth Washbrook show that the academic achievement gap between disadvantaged American children and their more advantaged peers is far greater than in other wealthy countries with serious consequences for their future life outcomes With education the key to expanding opportunities for those born into low socioeconomic status

families Too Many Children Left Behind helps us better understand educational disparities and how to reduce them Analyzing data on 8 000 school children in the United States the authors demonstrate that disadvantages that begin early in life have long lasting effects on academic performance The social inequalities that children experience before they start school contribute to a large gap in test scores between low and high SES students later in life Many children from low SES backgrounds lack critical resources including books high quality child care and other goods and services that foster the stimulating environment necessary for cognitive development The authors find that not only is a child s academic success deeply tied to his or her family background but that this class based achievement gap does not narrow as the child proceeds through school The authors compare test score gaps from the United States with those from three other countries and find smaller achievement gaps and greater social mobility in all three particularly in Canada The wider availability of public resources for disadvantaged children in those countries facilitates the early child development that is fundamental for academic success All three countries provide stronger social services than the United States including universal health insurance universal preschool paid parental leave and other supports The authors conclude that the United States could narrow its achievement gap by adopting public policies that expand support for children in the form of tax credits parenting programs and pre K With economic inequalities limiting the futures of millions of children Too Many Children Left Behind is a timely study that uses global evidence to show how the United States can do more to level the playing field

Teaching for Learning and Learning for Teaching Christopher Klopfer, Steve Drew, 2015-10-30 Teaching for Learning and Learning for Teaching focuses on the emerging global governmental and institutional agenda about higher education teaching quality and the role that peer review can play in supporting improvements in teaching and student outcomes This agenda is a pervasive element of the further development of higher education internationally through activities of governments global agencies institutions of higher education discrete disciplines and individual teachers Many universities have adopted student evaluations as a mechanism to appraise the quality of teaching These evaluations can be understood as providing a customer centric portrait of quality and when used as the sole arbiter of teaching performance they do not instil confidence in the system of evaluation by academic teaching staff Providing peer perspectives as counterpoint whether in a developmental or summative form goes some way to alleviating this imbalance and is the impetus for the resurgence of interest in peer review and observation of teaching This book seeks to recognise cases of peer review of teaching in Higher Education to affirm best practices and identify areas that require improvement in establishing local national and international benchmarks of teaching quality Facing Forward Sajitha

Bashir,Marlaine Lockheed,Elizabeth Ninan,Jee-Peng Tan,2018-09-20 Facing Forward lays out a range of policy and implementation actions that are needed for countries in Sub Saharan Africa to meet the challenge of improving learning while expanding access and completion of basic education for all The book underscores the importance of aligning the education system to be relentlessly focused on learning outcomes and to ensuring that all children have access to good schools good learning materials and good teachers It is unique in characterizing countries according to the challenges they faced in the 1990s and the educational progress they have made over the past 25 years allowing countries in the region to learn from each other The authors review the global literature and add to it by their extensive new analyses of multiple datasets from more than three dozen countries in the region they integrate findings about what affects children s learning their access to schooling and progress through basic education The book draws lessons from the region and for the region about what works and what is needed to better implement what is known to have worked The book examines four areas to help countries better align their systems to improve learning 1 completing the unfinished agenda of reaching universal basic education with quality 2 ensuring effective management and support of teachers 3 targeting spending priorities and budget processes on improving quality and 4 closing the institutional capacity gap It concludes with an assessment of how future educational progress may be affected by projected fertility rates and economic growth Getting Into Good Trouble at
