

Grade 1 Year-Long Overview

Students in social studies should explore key questions through multiple sources to develop claims about social studies content. As such, teachers must create instructional opportunities that delve deeply into content and guide students in developing and supporting claims about social studies concepts.

Grade 1 Content Focus	Grade 1 Claims
- Rules, communities, and citizenship - Holidays and local culture/environment - Meeting basic needs	- What role do I play in my school and community? - How do people and the environment impact my world? - What do I need, and how can I get it?

Content: Students in first grade are beginning to explore the world around them and how they fit into that world. Each strand of social studies is centered on this theme as they begin to investigate and apply their learning through historical thinking. Students explain how society, the environment, the political and economic landscape, and historical events influence perspectives, values, traditions, and ideas. To accomplish this, they:

- Use key questions to build understanding of content through multiple sources
- Corroborate sources and evaluate evidence by considering author, occasion, and purpose

Claims: Students develop and express claims through discussions and writing which examine the impact of relationships between ideas, people, and events across time and place. At this level, students are learning to make a judgment and support it with facts rather than opinions. Much of the supporting evidence needs to come from literary texts, as primary source documents may not be appropriate due to the reading level. To accomplish this, they

- Recognize recurring themes and patterns in history, geography, economics, and civics
- Evaluate the causes and consequences of events and developments
