Abstract

[illegible]

Although we make the distinction that though the two studies had different procedures and our individual results, both studies generated similar conclusions. Differences in the study design, subjects, and measurement created that a more direct similarity of results could not be drawn. Our research is consistent with both studies and further indicates that differences may not necessarily reflect differences between the two procedures and measurement methods. Our research is consistent with both studies and further indicates that differences may not necessarily reflect differences between the two procedures and measurement methods.
