Research on Teaching Strategies and Skills in Different Educational Stages Pedro Gil-Madrona, Linda Saraiva, Luisa Losada-Puente, 2025-03-19 The teaching practice becomes a reciprocal activity in the classroom when teachers apply their creativity and their knowledge resulting from research and scientific evidence in the didactic teaching process with the purpose of strengthening in the students the key competencies of their training turning students at the core of the didactic process Teaching strategies must be articulated from previous research and planning and designed sequentially to promote real and interesting learning scenarios and thereby achieve significant learning From this perspective of teaching learning strategies the reciprocal interaction between the student and the teacher becomes the focus of attention with a playful motivating interesting and rewarding approach for the learner The role of the teacher is conceived as fundamental in the teaching process to achieve the link between teaching learning and evaluation strategies For this reason multidisciplinary studies are welcome from all stages of the educational system with quantitative qualitative and mixed approaches and reviews promoting good teaching practices of reflection and innovation from these studies

Doing Oral History Donald A. Ritchie, 2014-09-19 Doing Oral History is considered the premier guidebook to oral history used by professional oral historians public historians archivists and genealogists as a core text in college courses and throughout the public history community Over the past decades the development of digital audio and video recording technology has continued to alter the practice of oral history making it even easier to produce quality recordings and to disseminate them on the Internet This basic manual offers detailed advice on setting up an oral history project conducting interviews making video recordings preserving oral history collections in archives and libraries and teaching and presenting oral history Using the existing Q A format the third edition asks new questions and augments previous answers with new material particularly in these areas 1 Technology As before the book avoids recommending specific equipment but weighs the merits of the types of technology available for audio and video recording transcription preservation and dissemination Information about web sites is expanded and more discussion is provided about how other oral history projects have posted their interviews online 2 Teaching The new edition addresses the use of oral history in online teaching It also expands the discussion of Institutional Review Boards IRBs with the latest information about compliance issues 3 Presentation Once interviews have been conducted there are many opportunities for creative presentation There is much new material available on innovative forms of presentation developed over the last decade including interpretive dance and other public performances 4 Legal considerations The recent Boston College case in which the courts have ruled that Irish police should have access to sealed oral history transcripts has refocused attention on the problems of protecting donor restrictions The new edition offers case studies from the past decade 5 Theory and Memory As a beginner's manual Doing Oral History has not dealt extensively with theoretical issues on the grounds that these emerge best from practice But the third edition includes the latest thinking about memory and provides a sample of some of the theoretical issues surrounding oral sources It will include examples of increased studies into catastrophe and trauma and the special considerations these have generated for interviewers 6 Internationalism Perhaps the biggest development in the past decade has been the spreading of oral history around the world facilitated in part by the International Oral History Association New oral history projects have developed in areas that have undergone social and political upheavals where the traditional archives reflect the old regimes particularly in Eastern Europe the Middle East Asia Africa and Latin America The third edition includes many more references to non U S projects that will still be relevant to an American audience These changes make the third edition of Doing Oral History an even more useful tool for beginners teachers archivists and all those oral history managers who have inherited older collections that must be converted to the latest technology

, Learning by Effective Utilization of Technologies: Facilitating Intercultural Understanding R. Mizoguchi, P. Dillenbourg, Z. Zhu, 2006-11-15 A major theme of this book is the use of computers for supporting collaborative learning This is not surprising since computer supported collaborative learning has become both a widespread educational practice and a main domain of research Moreover collaborative learning has deep roots in Asian educational traditions Given the large number of researchers within this field its scope has become very broad Under this umbrella one finds a variety of more specific topics such as interaction analysis collaboration scripts e g the

Jigsaw script communities of practice sociocognitive conflict resolution cognitive apprenticeship various tools for argumentation online discussion or collaborative drawing tools whiteboards collaborative writing and the role of facilitators Most research work on collaborative learning focuses on interactions rather than on the contents of environments which had been the focus in the previous decades of learning technology research However there is no reason to focus on one aspect to the detriment of the other The editors are pleased that the selected papers also cover multiple issues related to the storage representation and retrieval of knowledge ontologies for learning environments and the semantic web knowledge bases and data mining meta data and content management systems and so forth This publication also reveals a growing interest for non verbal educational material namely pictures and video materials which are already central to new popular web based applications This book includes contributions that bridge both research tracks the one focusing on interactions and the other on contents the pedagogical use of digital portfolios both for promoting individual reflections and for scaffolding group interactions

Handbook of Research on Reconceptualizing Preservice Teacher Preparation in Literacy Education Araujo, Juan J., Araujo, Dawn L., 2021-12-17 As it stands there is currently a void in education literature in how to best prepare preservice teachers to meet the needs of individualized learners across multiple learning platforms social economical contexts language variety and special education needs The subject is in dire need of support for the ongoing improvement of administrative clinical diagnostic and instructional practices related to the learning process The Handbook of Research on Reconceptualizing Preservice Teacher Preparation in Literacy Education stimulates the professional development of preservice and inservice literacy educators and researchers This book also promotes the excellence in preservice and inservice literacy both nationally and internationally Discussing topics such as virtual classrooms critical literacy and teacher preparation this book serves as an ideal resource for tenure track faculty in literacy education clinical faculty field supervisors who work with preservice teacher educators community college faculty university faculty who are in the midst of reconceptualizing undergraduate teacher education curriculum mentor teachers working with preservice teachers district personnel researchers students and curricula developers who wish to understand the needs of preservice teacher education

Long-term effects of Learning English Shigeo Uematsu, 2015-05-05 This book presents a pioneering longitudinal study on English language instruction at the elementary school ELES level in the Japanese public school system It attempts to identify those domains most sensitive to early English instruction by employing a state of the art quantitative research methodology English education was formally introduced in Japan for fifth and sixth graders in 2011 and is still in its infancy as a program This study compares two groups Grade 7 and 8 of students one with ELES and one without in order to shed light on their experiences Comparisons are carried out not only quantitatively measuring changes in English skills listening speaking reading and vocabulary grammar and the ELES students affective aspects but also qualitatively through in depth interviews Thus this study attempts to capture the ELES students experiences from a multi dimensional perspective The comprehensive literature review provided offers a valuable resource not only for researchers looking for a quick digest of the literature in this field before undertaking their own research but also for policy makers seeking to assess how to best implement ELES Improving How Universities Teach Science Carl Wieman, 2017-05-22 Too many universities remain wedded to outmoded ways of teaching Too few departments ask whether what happens in their lecture halls is effective at helping students to learn and how they can encourage their faculty to teach better But real change is possible and Carl Wieman shows us how it can be done through detailed tested strategies Sociological Abstracts Leo P. Chall, 1998

Handbook of Research on Pedagogical Innovations for Sustainable Development Thomas, Ken D., Muga, Helen E., 2014-03-31 Summary This book brings together case study examples in the fields of sustainability sustainable development and education for sustainable development
