Ritchie,2009-09-28 Understanding and predicting species diversity in ecological communities is one of the great challenges in community ecology Popular recent theory contends that the traits of species are neutral or unimportant to coexistence yet abundant experimental evidence suggests that multiple species are able to coexist on the same limiting resource precisely because they differ in key traits such as body size diet and resource demand This book presents a new theory of coexistence that incorporates two important aspects of biodiversity in nature scale and spatial variation in the supply of limiting resources Introducing an innovative model that uses fractal geometry to describe the complex physical structure of nature Mark Ritchie shows how species traits particularly body size lead to spatial patterns of resource use that allow species to coexist He explains how this criterion for coexistence can be converted into a rule for how many species can be packed into an environment given the supply of resources and their spatial variability He then demonstrates how this rule can be used to predict a range of patterns in ecological communities such as body size distributions species abundance distributions and species area relations Ritchie illustrates how the predictions closely match data from many real communities including those of mammalian herbivores grasshoppers dung beetles and birds This book offers a compelling alternative to neutral theory in community ecology one that helps us better understand patterns of biodiversity across the Earth , Books in Print Supplement ,2002 Glencoe Algebra 1 ,2001 Key Maths David Miller,2001 This series of resources provides comprehensive support for the Framework for Teaching Mathematics for Year 8 with particular emphasis on a three part mathematics lesson The materials are fully linked to Key Maths and address the beginning and end of the typical lesson structure outlined in the Framework The activities within the packs provide a variety of presentational models including opportunities for interactive oral work direct teaching and paired or group activity work to encourage pupils to engage in mathematical conversation This ICT resource pack provides full details on developing and supporting ICT work in mathematics Full range of additional worksheets that build on the activities in the CD ROM and linked to the National Curriculum The pack makes full reference to DfEE ICT guidelines and other requirements
