

A movie poster for the film "Going Home". The poster features a diverse group of six people, three women and three men, of various ages and ethnicities. They are all looking upwards with expressions of hope and anticipation. The background is a dramatic sky with large, billowing clouds in shades of orange, yellow, and purple, suggesting a sunrise or sunset. The title "GOING HOME" is written in a large, serif font at the bottom of the poster.

Viking, Go Home Faith V. Smith, 2010-03-31 Vulgar Thorrason s inability to keep his lust under control earns him the ire of a Faery Princess who sends him forward in time to modern day Michigan to learn the difference between lust and love There he meets Raven Harrison a romance author The petite beauty piques his lust but he sees red when she scoffs at his tale of being a time traveling Viking Raven is blown over by the handsome and half dressed man who comes out of nowhere His sensuality sends a shiver of desire straight to her feminine core However his tale of being curse by a Faery leads her to believe he should be locked up for his own protection Before she can suggest just that someone begins shooting at them and both she and the Viking are running for their lives A circumstance that brings them closer in more ways than one until their unknown assailant threatens Wulf s life Now both must make decisions that could destroy their relationship before it gets off the ground and before the Viking is snatched back to the past

You Can't Go Home Again Thomas Wolfe, 2011-10-11 Now available from Thomas Wolfe s original publisher the final novel by the literary legend that will stand apart from everything else that he wrote The New York Times Book Review first published in 1940 and long considered a classic of twentieth century literature A twentieth century classic Thomas Wolfe s magnificent novel is both the story of a young writer longing to make his mark upon the world and a sweeping portrait of America and Europe from the Great Depression through the years leading up to World War II Driven by dreams of literary success George Webber has left his provincial hometown to make his name as a writer in New York City When his first novel is published it brings him the fame he has sought but it also brings the censure of his neighbors back home who are outraged by his depiction of them Unsettled by their reaction and unsure of himself and his future Webber begins a search for a greater understanding of his artistic identity that takes him deep into New York's hectic social whirl to London with an uninhibited group of expatriates and to Berlin lying cold and sinister under Hitler's shadow He discovers a world plagued by political uncertainty and on the brink of transformation yet he finds within himself the capacity to meet it with optimism and a renewed love for his birthplace He is a changed man yet a hopeful one awake to the knowledge that one can never fully go back home to your family back home to your childhood away from all the strife and conflict of the world back home to the old forms and systems of things which once seemed everlasting but which are changing all the time

Some Go Home Odie Lindsey, 2025-04-25

This thrilling novel that follows three generations fractured by murder seeking redemption in fictional Pitchlynn Mississippi has the grit power and soul of Janis Joplin and the hardscrabble depth of Johnny Cash Randall Kenan An Iraq War veteran turned small town homemaker Colleen works hard to keep her deployment behind her until pregnancy brings her buried trauma to the surface She hides her mounting anxiety from her husband Derby who is in turn preoccupied with the retrial of his father Hare Hobbs for a decades old civil rights era murder Colleen and Derby's community including the descendants of the murder victim still grapple with the fallout corrections officer Doc and his wife Jessica have built their life in the shadow of this violent act As a media frenzy builds questions of Hare's guilt and of the townfolks potential complicity in the crime only magnify the ever present tensions of class and race tied always to the land and who can call it their own At the center of these lingering questions is Wallis House an antebellum estate that has recently passed to new hands A brick and mortar representation of a town trying to erase its past Wallis House is both the jewel of a gentrifying 2010s Pitchlynn and the scene of the 1964 murder itself When fresh violence erupts on the property grounds the battle between old Pitchlynn and new between memorial site and moving on forces a reckoning and irreparable loss Some Go Home twists together personal and collective history binding north Mississippi to northside Chicago in a richly textured explosive depiction of both the American South and our larger cultural legacy

"Imperialists in Broken Boots" Julie Cairnie, 2020-06-01 This book examines writing which is concerned with the period of the poor white problem and the poor white solution 1870s 1940s in Southern Africa It argues that poor white is not a narrow economic category but describes those who threaten to collapse boundaries racial sexual and class boundaries It studies four writers who migrate between Britain and Southern Africa who engage with the problem and the solution and who foreground ambiguity in their ambiguously genred texts Olive Schreiner and Doris Leasing highlight the problem as they embrace the threat posed by poor whites while Robert Tressell and Daphne Anderson foreground the solution as they argue for the incorporation of the poor into imperial myths about white homogeneity and upward mobility Based on an historical approach this book explores three premises The first premise is that poor white is a

liminal category that it encompasses economic failures and social transgressors The second premise is that Southern African life writing engages with its historical and political moment The third premise is that philanthropy is central to the articulation of the problem and the solution The final concluding chapter reflects upon the re emergence of poor whiteism since the end of Apartheid and the collapse of Zimbabwe and reflects upon the problem of black poverty Thomas Wolfe: Of Time and the River, You Can't Go Home Again & Look Homeward, Angel Thomas Wolfe, 2023-12-26 In his compelling trio of works Look Homeward Angel Of Time and the River and You Can't Go Home Again Thomas Wolfe navigates the complexities of identity memory and the inexorable passage of time Wolfe's literary style is marked by its lyrical prose and stream of consciousness narrative immersing the reader in the protagonist's introspective journey through the landscapes of his youth and the inevitable pull of home This thematic exploration is set against the backdrop of early 20th century America a period characterized by profound social change and the quest for personal meaning amid external chaos Thomas Wolfe born in 1900 in Asheville North Carolina was acutely influenced by the southern landscape and his own tumultuous experiences as a young man These elements imbue his writings with an authenticity reflective of the struggles of self discovery and familial ties Wolfe's passion for storytelling was nurtured by a rich literary environment as he was mentored by contemporaries like F Scott Fitzgerald and embraced the modernist techniques that shaped his distinctive voice This anthology is recommended for readers seeking a deeper understanding of American literature's evolution and the complexities of human experience Wolfe's profound insights and evocative language offer a cogent exploration of nostalgia and the search for belonging making these works essential for anyone intrigued by the intersections of memory place and identity Today We Go Home Kelli Estes, 2019-09-03 Today We Go Home shines an illuminating light on history and the female soldiers who have served this country from the Civil War to Afghanistan today Kelli Estes passionately brings the past to life interweaving the story of two women from different centuries whose journey towards hope is timeless GWENDOLYN WOMACK USA Today bestselling author of The Fortune Teller and The Time Collector In this evocative work of historical fiction USA Today bestselling author Kelli Estes pairs two military women who in the Civil War and Afghanistan share determination honor and a call to serve the United States no matter the cost Seattle Washington Larkin Bennett has always known her place whether it's surrounded by her loving family in the lush greenery of the Pacific Northwest or conducting a dusty patrol in Afghanistan But all of that changed the day tragedy struck her unit and took away everything she held dear Soon after the disaster Larkin discovers an unexpected treasure the diary of Emily Wilson a young woman who disguised herself as a man to fight for the Union in the Civil War As Larkin struggles to heal she finds herself drawn deeply into Emily's life and the secrets she kept Indiana 1861 The only thing more dangerous to Emily Wilson than a rebel soldier is the risk of her own comrades in the Union Army discovering her secret But as the war marches on and takes its terrible toll Emily begins to question everything she thought she was willing to risk her life for Historical fiction fans of Marie Benedict Beatriz

Williams and Kate Quinn will be inspired by this story of two women in militaries separated by centuries but united in hope and dignity

Bringing Tony Home Tissa Abeysekara, 2008-11-25 Set in the 1940s and 1960s Bringing Tony Home is a masterful modern example of a timeless genre the bildungsroman In the title novella a boy returns to his old home to find Tony his beloved dog who was abandoned when economic circumstances forced the family to leave Bringing Tony Home recounts this perilous journey in detail movingly tracing the boy's rescue attempts and his spiraling emotions as he endures changes occurring in his family In Elsewhere Something Like a Love Story a young boy finds forbidden love with a schoolmate scorned for her poverty Elsewhere continues their saga touching on the bittersweet memories they share as adults and on the woman's increasingly precarious place in a society concerned only with status The other stories Poor Young Man A Requiem and Hark The Moaning Pond A Grandmother's Tale delve into a young man's relationship with his father as the latter's fortunes fade and into the now mature man's attempts to come to grips with the death of his grandmother and what she symbolized Abeysekara's ability to evoke the sights and sounds of another time and place and his skill in rendering the inner lives of his characters make Bringing Tony Home a remarkable read

66 David Baer analyses the labour that resulted in the Greek Isaiah He compares the Greek text with extant Hebrew texts and with early biblical versions to show that the translator has approached his craft with homiletical interests in mind This earliest translator of Isaiah produces a preached text at the same time modifying his received tradition in theological and nationalistic directions which would reach their full flower in Targumic and Rabbinical literature In basic agreement with recent work on other portions of the Septuagint the Greek Isaiah is seen to be an elegant work of Hellenistic literature whose linguistic fluidity expresses the convictions and longings of a deeply Palestinian soul A Maiden of Our Own Day

Florence Wilford,1862 Rutilius Namatianus' Going Home Martha Malamud,2016-04-14 Martha Malamud provides the only scholarly English translation of De Reditu Suo with significant notes and commentary that explore historical literary cultural and mythical references as well as commenting on literary allusions the structure diction and style of the poem and textual issues De Reditu Suo provides fascinating insights into travel and communications networks in the rapidly changing fragmented world of the fifth century A substantial introductory essay explores Rutilius place in several intellectual and literary traditions as the poem is a sophisticated piece of literature that both draws on the rich tradition of classical Latin poetry and reflects the distinctive formal features of late antique poetry. The poem also conveys the thoughts of a man passionately devoted to Rome and its cultural heritage enmeshed in the tumultuous political and social upheaval of his day caught between his hopes for Rome's restoration and his fear of its disintegration. With line for line translation from the Latin and a scholarly introduction, extensive notes, and comprehensive bibliography, Martha Malamud makes this important text accessible and relevant for students and scholars in Classics, Comparative Literature, Religious Studies, Medieval Studies, and Ancient History, as well as independent readers with an interest in the literature of the period.
