MALAYSIA Collection of Essays Firend Al. Rasch, Impressed with the economic performance of Malaysia triggered an interest in examining how Malaysia then under PM Mahathir managed to pull out of the financial crisis of 1997 that gripped much of South East Asia Years later Malaysia managed to pull itself out of the financial crisis and to be a rising Asian tiger This early interest has turned into love and affection to a country with unique history resources and marvelous people The deeper my research of Malaysia the more my frustration grew with the lack of ability of a nation to move into a unique socio economic position That is to equalize with Singapore or compete at the global level with Korea I chose 2020 to publish this body of work because I was waiting to confirm my hypothesis that Malaysia will not manage to achieve Wawasan 2020 vision 2020 which is to be amongst 1st world nations Failing to achieve vision 2020 is no coincidence Malaysia is stuck in the middle between cheap production countries such as Vietnam and Korea and services based economies such as Singapore The first essay that follows the introduction is called The Phenomenon of Economic Inertia The premise for this research paper is that Malaysia is suffering from a phenomenon of inertia economically however that it is incapable of pulling itself out of its current position like many developing nations for number of reasons With corruption being deeply rooted in the varying layers of society and a leadership that failed to control corruption as in the case of Singapore and move the country into globally competitive position This is what is meant by a Phenomenon of Inertia that is a conscious self inflicted condition The human factor in the hypothesis of Phenomenon of Inertia does comprise of society at large people leadership and institutions Managerial practices in Malaysia are still hierarchical and power based Such hierarchy and power bases are an evident participant in the inner play of socio economics of the Malaysian nation The Malaysian current state of affairs as of 2020 is self inflicted condition With the Malaysia education system being deeply flawed This naturally led into the state of Malaysian lack of industrial competitiveness which is not breaking through its global competitors With so much to offer Malaysia still has a great chance to make the leap forward to achieve its Wawasan to be realized in a later date as long as it gets there This will entirely depend on the will of the Malaysian people collectively

Managing a Global Workforce: Challenges and Opportunities in International Human Resource Management Charles M Vance,Yongsun Paik,2014-12-18 Revised and updated to incorporate new research insights and findings Managing a Global Workforce provides balanced and contemporary coverage of human resource management in the international marketplace Directed at future general managers and international executives rather than HR specialists it is designed to help readers recognize the critical human resource issues underlying the cultural and economic challenges they face The book s approach is truly global in nature not just focused on expatriates from the home office The authors also recognize contemporary trends in the global business arena including the growing use of contingent workers strategic alliances and the need to have an active influence on the workers in these new organizational relationships Reader friendly tools including an opening case scenario in each chapter to attract interest and emphasize topic importance enhance the book s practical real world emphasis For this edition new end of chapter short cases as well as new topics ideas and illustrations featuring current issues and challenges such as the global economic challenge have been added and updated Internet resource references are provided for each chapter

Managing Human Resources in Africa Chima Mordi,Hakeem Adeniyi Ajonbadi,Olatunji David Adekoya,Toyin Ajibade Adisa,2023-07-24 Over the decades academic literature has too often neglected the complexities and diversity of the African continent and the challenges faced by both multinational companies working across Africa and domestic African companies particularly in the field of human resources This edited collection has been compiled with the aim of developing our understanding and practice of HRM in an African context within an increasingly global work milieu Chapters focus on different African countries and are underpinned by a critical approach to HRM which goes beyond focussing on the business cases but considers the sensitivity of the national context The authors will draw on various types of research conceptual theoretical and empirical and incorporate contextual issues such as technology politics culture and economics to supplement the readers insights into the current state of human resource management in African countries By highlighting theoretical underpinnings and emphasising the practical relevance of HR issues this proposed book will offer an insightful guide for students and scholars interested in HR and management in developing economies
