1. Identify the problem. The first step in the problem-solving process is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the situation, gathering information, and defining the problem in clear, specific terms.
2. Generate potential solutions. Once the problem is identified, the next step is to generate potential solutions. This involves brainstorming ideas, considering different perspectives, and evaluating the feasibility of each solution.
3. Evaluate the solutions. After generating potential solutions, the next step is to evaluate them. This involves comparing the solutions to the problem, considering the pros and cons of each, and selecting the most effective solution.
4. Implement the solution. Once a solution has been selected, the next step is to implement it. This involves developing a plan, assigning responsibilities, and monitoring progress.
5. Review the results. The final step in the problem-solving process is to review the results. This involves evaluating the effectiveness of the solution, identifying any areas for improvement, and documenting the process for future reference.

1. Identify the problem.
Is the problem of the job (a) a business problem (related to productivity, profitability, etc.) or (b) a human problem (related to employee well-being, satisfaction, etc.)?
2. Identify the stakeholders.
Who are the people affected by the problem? Who has the authority to make decisions about the problem?
3. Identify the resources.
What resources (time, money, people, etc.) are available to solve the problem?
4. Identify the constraints.
What factors might limit the solutions that are possible?
