Tree diagrams are visual models that are rectangles to represent the parts of a ratio. Since they are a visual model, drawing them requires attention to detail in the setup. In this problem, David and Jason have numbers of marbles in a ratio of 2:3. This ratio is recorded here by drawing 2 rectangles to represent David's portions, and 3 rectangles to represent Jason's portions. The rectangles are uniform in size and lined up, as in the left hand side, for easy visual reference. The large brackets on the right show the total number of marbles David and Jason have (50). It is clear visually that the large have 5 rectangles worth of marbles, and that the total number of marbles is 50. This information will be used to solve this problem.
