Castenel, Tarek C. Grantham, Billy J. Hawkins, 2018-06-01 A problematic yet uncommon assumption among many higher education researchers is that recruitment retention and engagement of African American males is relatively similar and stable across all majority White colleges and universities In fact the harsh reality is that selective public research universities SPRUs have distinctive academic cultures that increase the difficulty of diversifying their faculty and student populations This book will discuss how traditions and elitist assumptions make it very difficult to recruit retain and engage African American males The authors will examine these issues from multiple perspectives in three sections that highlight research policies and practices impacting the experiences of African American males including Pre Collegiate Preparation African American Male Student Athletes and Undergraduate and Graduate Considerations for African American Male Initiatives

Top Student, Top School? Alexandria Walton Radford, 2013-05-06 Most of us think that valedictorians can write their own ticket By reaching the top of their class they have proven their merit so their next logical step should be to attend the nation's very best universities Yet in Top Student Top School Alexandria Walton Radford of American Institutes for Research reveals that many valedictorians do not enroll in prestigious institutions Employing an original five state study that surveyed nine hundred public high school valedictorians she sets out to determine when and why valedictorians end up at less selective schools showing that social class makes all the difference Radford traces valedictorians' paths to college and presents damning evidence that high schools do not provide sufficient guidance on crucial factors affecting college selection such as reputation financial aid and even the application process itself Left in a bewildering environment of seemingly similar options many students depend on their parents for assistance and this allows social class to rear its head and have a profound impact on where students attend Simply put parents from less affluent backgrounds are far less informed about differences in colleges' quality the college application process and financial aid options which significantly limits their child's chances of attending a competitive school even when their child has already managed to become valedictorian. Top Student Top School pinpoints an overlooked yet critical juncture in the education process one that stands as a barrier to class mobility. By focusing solely on valedictorians it shows that students' paths diverge by social class even when they are similarly well prepared academically and this divergence is traceable to specific failures by society failures that we can and should address.
