Jewish continuity In 2007 the Museum at Eldridge Street opened at the site of a restored nineteenth century synagogue originally built by some of the first Eastern European Jewish immigrants in New York City Visitors to the museum are invited to stand along indentations on the floor where footprints of congregants past have worn down the soft pinewood Here many feel a palpable connection to the history surrounding them Beyond the Synagogue argues that nostalgic activities such as visiting the Museum at Eldridge Street or eating traditional Jewish foods should be understood as American Jewish religious practices In making the case that these practices are not just cultural but are actually religious Rachel B Gross asserts that many prominent sociologists and historians have mistakenly concluded that American Judaism is in decline and she contends that they are looking in the wrong places for Jewish religious activity If they looked outside of traditional institutions and practices such as attendance at synagogue or membership in Jewish Community Centers they would see that the embrace of nostalgia provides evidence of an alternative under appreciated way of being Jewish and of maintaining Jewish continuity Tracing American Jews involvement in a broad array of ostensibly nonreligious activities including conducting Jewish genealogical research visiting Jewish historic sites purchasing books and toys that teach Jewish nostalgia to children and seeking out traditional Jewish foods Gross argues that these practices illuminate how many American Jews are finding and making meaning within American Judaism today

Viral Hate Abraham H. Foxman,Christopher Wolf,2013-06-04 Emboldened by anonymity individuals and organizations from both left and right are freely spewing hateful vitriol on the Internet without worrying about repercussions Lies bullying conspiracy theories bigoted and racist rants and calls for violence targeting the most vulnerable circulate openly on the web And thanks to the guarantees of the First Amendment and the borderless nature of the Internet governing bodies are largely helpless to control this massive assault on human dignity and safety Abe Foxman and Christopher Wolf expose the threat that this unregulated flow of bigotry poses to the world They explore how social media companies like Facebook and YouTube as well as search engine giant Google are struggling to reconcile the demands of business with freedom of speech and the disturbing threat posed by today's purveyors of hate And they explain the best tools available to citizens parents educators law enforcement officers and policy makers to protect the twin values of transparency and responsibility As Foxman and Wolf show only an aroused and engaged citizenry can stop the hate contagion before it spirals out of control with potentially disastrous results
