Modern Biology James Howard Otto, 1985 High-School Biology Today and Tomorrow National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Commission on Life Sciences, Committee on High-School Biology Education, 1989-02-01 Biology is where many of science's most exciting and relevant advances are taking place. Yet many students leave school without having learned basic biology principles and few are excited enough to continue in the sciences. Why is biology education failing? How can reform be accomplished? This book presents information and expert views from curriculum developers, teachers, and others offering suggestions about major issues in biology education: what should we teach in biology and how should it be taught? How can we measure results? How should teachers be educated and certified? What obstacles are blocking reform? Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1949 Includes Part 1A Books and Part 1B Pamphlets, Serials and Contributions to Periodicals Bibliography of Agriculture, 1969-08 National Library of Medicine Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1960 The Ecology of Cyanobacteria B.A. Whitton, M. Potts, 2007-05-08 Cyanobacteria make a major contribution to world photosynthesis and nitrogen fixation but are also notorious for causing nuisances such as dense and often toxic blooms in lakes and the ocean. The Ecology of Cyanobacteria: Their Diversity in Time and Space is the first book to focus solely on ecological aspects of these organisms. Its twenty-two chapters are written by some thirty authors who are leading experts in their particular subject. The book begins with an overview of the cyanobacteria or blue-green algae for those who are not specialists, then looks at their diversity in the geological record and goes on to describe their ecology in present environments where they play important roles. Why is one of the key groups of organisms in the Precambrian still one of the most important groups of phototrophs today? The importance of ecological information for rational management and exploitation of these organisms for commercial and other practical purposes is also assessed. Accounts are provided of nuisances as well as the ecology of the commercially successful Spirulina and the role of cyanobacteria in ecosystem recovery from oil pollution. Many chapters include aspects of physiology, biochemistry, geochemistry, and molecular biology where these help general understanding of the subject. In addition, there are three chapters dealing specifically with molecular ecology. Thirty-two pages of colour photos incorporate about seventy views and light micrographs. These features make the book valuable to a wide readership including biologists, microbiologists, geologists, water managers, and environmental consultants. The book complements the highly successful The Molecular Biology of Cyanobacteria already published by Kluwer. The School Journal, 1912 Anoxygenic Photosynthetic Bacteria R.E. Blankenship, Michael T. Madigan, C.E. Bauer, 2006-04-11 Anoxygenic Photosynthetic Bacteria is a comprehensive volume describing all aspects of non-oxygen evolving photosynthetic bacteria. The 62 chapters are organized into themes of Taxonomy, physiology and ecology, Molecular structure of pigments and cofactors, Membrane and cell wall structure, Antenna structure and function, Reaction center structure and electron/proton pathways, Cyclic electron transfer Metabolic processes Genetics Regulation of gene expression and applications The chapters have all been written by leading experts and present in detail the current understanding of these versatile microorganisms The book is intended for use by advanced undergraduate and graduate students and senior researchers in the areas of microbiology genetics biochemistry biophysics and biotechnology National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1974 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70

Integrating Conservation Biology and Paleobiology to Manage Biodiversity and Ecosystems in a Changing World G. Lynn Wingard,Chris Schneider,Gregory P. Dietl ,Damien Fordham, Policy makers and resource managers must make decisions that affect the resilience and sustainability of natural resources including biodiversity and ecosystem services However these decisions are often based on evidence or theory derived from highly altered systems and over short time periods of low magnitude environmental and climatic change Because natural systems change and evolve across multiple timescales from instantaneous to millennial long term understanding of how past life has responded to perturbations can inform resource managers By using these natural laboratories of the past conservation paleobiology and paleoecology provide the framework necessary to anticipate and plan for future changes The goal of this Research Topic is to heighten awareness among conservation and restoration practitioners to the value and applications of long term perspectives provided by conservation paleobiology and paleoecology Most conservation studies focus on systems already impacted by anthropogenic change these studies would benefit from paleontological data through expanded temporal scales identification of baselines and an understanding of how organisms have responded to past changes However resource management decisions rarely include input from paleontologists and paleoecological research is rarely incorporated into conservation decision making We seek to bridge this research implementation gap by highlighting the application of paleoecological data to issues such as biodiversity dynamics extinction risks and resilience to perturbations among other topics We hope to foster new cross disciplinary synergies by encouraging conservation scientists and managers to collaborate with paleontologists to improve conservation decision making and by increasing awareness among paleontologists to the needs of the resource management community This Research Topic will provide a forum for both the paleontological and resource management communities to exchange ideas that will enhance restoration and conservation decision making We invite papers on conceptual advances reviews of specific topics to guide efforts in research or practice case studies of successful applications articles describing datasets with applied value and perspective papers summarizing a body of paleontological research with relevance to the resource management community Topics can include but are not limited to Responses of species communities and ecosystems to perturbations Strategies to achieve the direct integration of paleobiology and paleoecology into on ground resource management Identifying baselines and reference conditions Increasing the robustness of forecasting models through the incorporation of paleontological data Identifying key species interactions and other phenomena as indicators of impending change New methodologies analytical tools and or proxies in the application of paleontological data to conservation and restoration practice Lynn Wingard Damien Fordham and Greg Dietl have no conflicts of interest Chris Schneider has a potential conflict of interest where manuscripts pertain to stakeholders in the petroleum industry as she is an independent contractor in the Alberta Oil Sands mining area
