Life Science Practical Term 3 2013:

Renegotiating Disciplinary Fields in the Life Sciences Alessandro Minelli, 2021-02-24 Recent and ongoing debates in biology and the philosophy of biology reveal a widespread dissatisfaction with traditional explanatory frameworks. There are also problems with the current definitions or circumscriptions of key concepts such as gene, species and homology and even of whole disciplinary fields within the life sciences e.g. developmental biology. These contrasting views are arguably a symptom of the need to revisit traditional unchallenged partitions between the specialist disciplines within the life sciences. In the diversity of topics addressed and approaches to move beyond the current disciplinary organization, the five essays in this volume will hopefully stimulate further exploration towards an improved articulation of life sciences. Civilization and the Culture of Science Stephen Gaukroger, 2020-02-19 How did science come to have such a central place in Western culture? How did cognitive values and subsequently moral, political and social ones come to be modelled around scientific values? In Civilization and the Culture of Science Stephen Gaukroger explores how these values were shaped and how they began in turn to shape those of society. The core nineteenth and twentieth century development is that in which science comes to take centre stage in determining ideas of civilization, displacing Christianity in this role. Christianity had provided a unifying thread in the study of the world, however, and science had to match this, which it did through the project of the unity of the sciences. The standing of science came to rest or fall on this question, which the book sets out to show in detail, is essentially ideological, not something that arose from developments within the sciences which remained pluralistic and modular. A crucial ingredient in this process was a fundamental rethinking of the relations between science and ethics, economics, philosophy and engineering. In his engaging description of this transition to a scientific modernity, Gaukroger examines five of the issues which underpinned this shift in detail: changes in the understanding of civilization; the push to unify the sciences; the rise of the idea of the limits of scientific understanding; the concepts of applied and popular science; and the way in which the public was shaped in a scientific image. Research Handbook on Intellectual Property and the Life Sciences Duncan Matthews, Herbert Zech, 2017-06-30 Intellectual property (IP) is a key component of the life sciences, one of the most dynamic and innovative fields of technology today. At the same time, the relationship between IP and the life sciences raises new public policy dilemmas. The Research Handbook on Intellectual Property and the Life Sciences comprises contributions by leading experts from academia and industry to provide in-depth analyses of key topics including pharmaceuticals, diagnostics and genes, plant innovations, stem cells, the role of competition law and access to medicines. The Research Handbook focuses on the relationship between IP and the life sciences in Europe and the United States, complemented by country-specific case studies on Australia, Brazil, China, India, Japan, Kenya, South Africa and Thailand, to provide a truly international perspective.
