Assessing Communication Education William G. Christ, 2013-11-05 Designed as a handbook this text provides media speech public speaking interpersonal small group and organizational communication and theatre educators with both the theoretical and practical ammunition to fight the assessment battles on their campuses The philosophical implications of accountability are balanced with concrete specific and usable assessment strategies Stressing student faculty course program department and institutional assessment this book's aim is to provide in one place information that will help diverse and complex communication programs face the growing challenges in assessment The book is divided into three sections background and foundational information for assessment broad assessment strategies that apply to a variety of media speech and theatre courses and programs and context specific assessment strategies While covering a host of topics it provides an overview of assessment and suggests how it might impact communication education discusses the elements of program assessment and how linkage of mission statements with outcomes can lead to strong innovative programs compares and contrasts regional association requirements and presents a specific how to strategy for writing outcome statements discusses teaching evaluation and argues that we need to identify the what of teaching before we try to measure the how looks at creative ways for formative and summative course evaluation that starts with the creation of an explicit syllabus discusses the use of capstone courses as a way of evaluating not only their major but also how students have integrated their total educational experience suggests the variety of ways that interpersonal communication can be assessed and calls for future research that stresses the knowledge component of learning reports on a strategy for developing small group communication assessment measures and provides media speech and theatre faculty and administrators with the background understanding and tools to build stronger programs and develop better courses and educational experiences for their students The National Assessment of College Student Learning Sal Corrallo, 1996 This report summarizes proceedings and conclusions of a two day national planning workshop to further the assessment of national postsecondary outcomes as suggested by Goal 6 5 of the National Education Goals and to determine how the National Center for Education Statistics NCES and the states might work more effectively to develop mutually supportive postsecondary assessment activities and policies Conclusions of the workshop indicate that there is no immediate possibility of aggregating state level data on postsecondary outcomes to create a usable national indicator But they do suggest other ways in which the states and the federal government might work together to improve the quality of the data Section 1 provides background information and an overview of the workshop Section 2 presents results of an inventory of state activities Section 3 describes the workshop's major discussion themes and conclusions concerning 1 the current political context for postsecondary assessment 2 the corresponding methodological context and 3 results of working sessions Section 4 provides conclusions policy implications and possible next steps

Appendices include in addition to the workshop agenda and participants list a paper describing current activities of the NCES and individual background papers on each state's activities in postsecondary assessment. Also appended are the texts of the following prepared papers: What Political Leaders Expect from Postsecondary Assessment Charles S. Lenth, Perspective from the National Education Goals Panel; Ken Nelson, The State Perspective; Mark D. Musick, The Virginia Experience; Margaret A. Miller, Making Assessment Essential without Legislative Mandates; The Missouri Experience; Ava L. Fajen et al, and Methodological Concerns: An ETS Perspective; John Mazzeo, MAH. Convergent Teaching Aaron M. Pallas, Anna Neumann, 2019-12-10. How what we know about K-12 education can revolutionize learning in college. Honorable Mention in the Foreword INDIES Award for Education by FOREWORD Reviews. Winner of the 2021 Bronze IPPY Award for Education II. Amid the wide-ranging public debate about the future of higher education is a tension about the role of the faculty as instructors versus researchers and the role of teaching in the mission of a university. What is absent from that discourse is any clear understanding of what constitutes good teaching in college. In Convergent Teaching, masterful professors of education Aaron M. Pallas and Anna Neumann make the case that American higher education must hold fast to its core mission of fostering learning and growth for all people. Arguing that colleges and universities do this best through their teaching function, the book portrays teaching as a professional practice that teachers should actively hone. Drawing on rich research on K-12 classroom teaching, the authors develop the novel idea of convergent teaching, an approach that attends simultaneously to what students are learning and the personal, social, and cultural contexts shaping this process. Convergent Teaching they write, spurs teachers to join students' cognitions with the students' emotions and identities as they learn. Offering new ways to think about how college teachers can support and advance their students' learning of core disciplinary ideas, Pallas and Neumann outline targeted actions that campus administrators, public policy makers, and foundation leaders can take to propel such efforts. Vivid examples of instructors enacting three key principles: targeting, surfacing, and navigating, help bring the idea of convergent teaching to life. Full of research-based practical ideas for better teaching and learning, Convergent Teaching presents numerous instances of successful campus-based initiatives. It also sets a bold agenda for disciplinary organizations, philanthropies, and the federal government to support teaching improvement. This book will challenge higher education students while motivating college administrators and faculty to enact change on their campuses.
