My belief about myself as a learner when I entered the class was a positive one. I attended a college prep school for high school and went to Oregon State University last year. I had plenty of practice with different learning techniques and found what works well for me. I believe I'm more of a visual learner than an auditory learner. It is easier to see a powerpoint and retain the knowledge then listen to a lecture and have the same retention. Entering the class I thought I liked working in groups more than working individually on projects, but that has since changed. I think it is more beneficial to me to work alone because I can get more done. When I entered the class I believed that reading the material closer to the due date was a better idea because I may not remember what I had read if I didn't.

What I have discovered about myself, as a learner over the term is vast. I learned that I can read the material way in advance and just briefly skim over the text and remember just about everything, were as I thought reading closer was more beneficial. I also learned that working in groups really isn't my specialty. I prefer working by myself because I'm able to get a lot more done and not have to worry about other people forgetting their part of the project. I don't like having to worry about other people no following through. I also learned that looking at the daily record in advanced helped me

V. Rama, 2023-07-03 The fifth volume in a AAHE and Campus Compact s series on service learning in the disciplines this volume focuses on curriculum reform in accounting programs based on goals identified by accounting educators and describes specific implementations across the accounting curriculum A practical guide with real solutions for both accounting educators and students Real Learning, Real Work Adria Steinberg, 1998 First Published in 1998 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Writing as Punishment in Schools, Courts, and Everyday Life Spencer Schaffner, 2019-06-11 A probing and prescient consideration of writing as an instrument of punishment Writing tends to be characterized as a positive aspect of literacy that helps us to express our thoughts to foster interpersonal communication and to archive ideas However there is a vast array of evidence that emphasizes the counterbelief that writing has the power to punish shame humiliate control dehumanize fetishize and transform those who are subjected to it In Writing as Punishment in Schools Courts and Everyday Life Spencer Schaffner looks at many instances of writing as punishment including forced tattooing drunk shaming court ordered letters of apology and social media shaming with the aim of bringing understanding and recognition to the coupling of literacy and subjection Writing as

Punishment in Schools Courts and Everyday Life is a fascinating inquiry into how sinister writing can truly be and directly questions the educational ideal that powerful writing is invariably a public good While Schaffner does look at the darker side of writing he neither vilifies nor supports the practice of writing as punishment Rather he investigates the question with humanistic inquiry and focuses on what can be learned from understanding the many strange ways that writing as punishment is used to accomplish fundamental objectives in everyday life Through five succinct case studies we meet teachers judges parents sex traffickers and drunken partiers who have turned to writing because of its presumed power over writers and readers Schaffner provides careful analysis of familiar punishments such as schoolchildren copying lines and more bizarre public rituals that result in ink covered bodies and individuals forced to hold signs in public Schaffner argues that writing based punishment should not be dismissed as benign or condemned as a misguided perversion of writing but instead should be understood as an instrument capable of furthering both the aims of justice and degradation Innovation in Pedagogy and Technology Symposium, 2019 University of Nebraska, 2020-03 Selected presentations from May 2019 University of Nebraska symposium Hiring the Next Generation of Faculty: New Directions for Community Colleges, Number 152 Cejda, John P. Murray, 2011-01-18 The first chapter in this volume presents an overview of the faculty personnel challenges facing community colleges the next three discuss the socialization and professional development of new faculty Authors stress the importance of understanding differences among the typs of community colleges and the importance of gender and racial thnic diversity among the facultry of the institutions who educate the majority of undergraduate females and students of color The volume concludes with chapters on legal aspects related to the faculty employment and the experiences of presidents and senior instructional administrators giving valuable guidance to those actively involved in the hiring process At the heart of this volume is the continued commitment to the community college ideal of providing educational access and through quality instruction facilitating student learning and success Previous research indicated that community college faculty retire at or near the traditional age of sixty five With an aging faculty enrollments that are reaching unprecedented levels and the federal government calling for the community college to take an even greater role in workforce training community colleges will need to both replace significant portions of their faculty and hire additional faculty lines between now and 2020 This next hiring wave has implications for community colleges the diverse student populations who attend these institutions and society in general This is the 152nd volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Community Colleges Essential to the professional libraries of presidents vice presidents deans and other leaders in today s open door institutions New Directions for Community Colleges provides expert guidance in meeting the challenges of their distinctive and expanding educational mission
