Parliament. House of Commons. Committee of Public Accounts,2015 It is staggering that the government has given over 40 million to Kids Company over the past 13 years and still has no idea what it was getting for taxpayers money It was not part of this inquiry to assess the outcomes of Kids Company s work We object to the obvious unfairness of central government directly funding a charity which operated in only two London boroughs for most of its existence with around 4 million a year at the expense of other charities and young people across the country Despite repeated warnings and concerns about Kids Company s financial situation and the impact it was achieving funding to the charity continued and was never seriously questioned let alone stopped Instead responsibilities were passed between departments like a hot potato All the warning signs of a failed and expensive experiment had long been there but it was not until June 2015 that officials finally stood up to ministers said enough was enough and sought ministerial direction before providing more money By then it was too late
