Jurisdiction to Tax Corporate Income Pursuant to the Presumptive Benefit Principle Eva Escribano, 2019-05-10 Jurisdiction to Tax Corporate Income Pursuant to the Presumptive Benefit Principle intends to demonstrate that the profit shifting phenomenon i.e. the ability of companies to book their profits in jurisdictions other than those that host their economic activities is real severe undesirable and above all the natural consequence of both the preservation of three fundamental paradigms that have historically underlain corporate income taxes and their precise legal configuration In view of this the book submits a number of proposals in relation to the aforementioned paradigms and in the light of the suggested presumptive benefit principle so as to counteract profit shifting risks and thus attain a more equitable allocation of taxing rights among States This PhD thesis obtained the prestigious European Academic Tax Thesis Award 2018 granted by the European Commission and the European Association of Tax Law Professors What's in this book This book provides a disruptive discourse on tax sovereignty in the field of corporate income taxation that endeavors to escape from long standing tax policy tendencies and prejudices while considering the challenges posed by a globalized and increasingly digitalized economy In particular the book offers an innovative perspective on certain deep rooted paradigms historically underlying corporate income taxation tax treatment of related parties within a corporate group along with the arm's length standard corporate tax residence standards and definition of source for corporate income tax purposes with a particular emphasis on the permanent establishment concept. The book explores their respective origins, supposed tax policy rationales, structural problems and interactions, ultimately showing how the way tax jurisdiction is currently defined through them inherently tends to trigger profit shifting outcomes. In view of the conclusions of the study, the author suggests the use of a new version of the traditional benefit principle, the presumptive benefit principle, that would contribute to address the profit shifting phenomenon while serving as a practical guideline to achieve a more equitable allocation of taxing rights among jurisdictions. Finally, the book submits a number of proposals inspired by the aforementioned guideline that aspire to strike a balance between equity, effectiveness and technical feasibility. They include a new corporate tax residence test and most notably a proposal on a new remote sales permanent establishment. How this will help you. With its case study based on the Apple group empirically demonstrating the existence of the profit shifting phenomenon, its clearly documented exposure of the reasons why traditional corporate income tax regimes systematically give rise to these outcomes, its new tax policy guideline and its proposals for reform, this book makes a significant contribution to current tax policy discussions concerning corporate income taxation in cross border scenarios. It will be warmly welcomed by all concerned policymakers, scholars, practitioners with the greatest tax policy challenges that corporate income taxation is facing in the contemporary world.

Auerbach, Kent Andrew Smetters, 2017 Debates about the optimal structure for tax policies and tax rates hardly cease among public policy or academic audiences These have only grown more heated in the United States as the gap between incomes of the wealthiest 1 percent and the rest of the population continue to diverge Tax research perhaps has not fully kept pace with the relentless demand of various interests to adjust tax policy Nonetheless specialists in the economics of tax policy in recent years have profited from advances in economic theory econometric measurements and data quality and access that are beginning to allow a greater consensus on what are the real effects of tax policy and how government levies affect individuals and businesses The volume edited by Professors Auerbach and Smetters represents an attempt to reduce the lag between the conduct of research on tax issues and its transmission to a broader public The contributions would explore highly topical issues such as the effects of income tax changes on economic growth the potential effects of capping certain tax expenditures the economics of adjusted business tax policy and environmental tax options Other essays would investigate perennially important themes such as the conduct of tax administration the growing role of the tax system on education policy tax policy toward low income families capital gains and estate taxation and tax policy for retirement savings A final paper would examine three different options for fundamental tax reform

A Basic Income Handbook Annie Miller, 2020-04-24 In this informative book Annie Miller does not only explore the idea of basic income she exhaustively explains what it is and what it would mean to implement using extensive economic data Miller starts off from a broad existential position outlining why the current system is no longer suitable for the times and needs to change Her proposed solution is a society with BI which she first outlines abstractly before diving into its internal workings explaining who would be eligible for BI what would happen to the rest of the welfare system and other crucial details Miller backs up her statements with substantive economic research and analysis She ends with a section on how to achieve a society with BI giving examples of pilot schemes elsewhere and discussing the politics behind implementation Thus she brings the reader full circle from aspiring to a BI society to seeing what it would take to reach it

Special Features of the UN Model Convention Anna Binder, Viktoria Wöhrer, 2019-10-01 Detailed research on the UN Model Convention's unique features The UN Model Convention has a significant influence on international tax treaty practice and is especially used by emerging and developing countries as a starting point for treaty negotiations Driven by the aim to achieve consistency in the international tax treaty practice the structure and content is to a large extent similar in the UN Model and the OECD Model However whereas the OECD has historically focused its efforts on issues mainly relevant for developed countries the UN Tax Committee has continuously attempted to specifically take into account tax treaty policies for developing countries when drafting and amending the UN Model Convention Compared to the OECD Model Convention the UN Model Convention aims at giving more weight to the source principle Popular examples are the PE definition in the UN Model which provides for a lower threshold than Article 5 of the OECD Model or Article 12A on Fees for Technical Services which has been introduced with the latest amendment of the UN Model Convention 2017 and allows for a withholding tax to be levied on payments to non residents when the payer of the fee is a resident of that contracting State irrespective of where the services are provided Interestingly in the discussions of the tax challenges arising from the digitalization of the economy the OECD and the G20 are also exploring options to allocate more taxing rights to the jurisdiction of the customer and or user i.e. the market jurisdictions As this has traditionally been the focus of the UN Model Convention its unique features and developing countries practices could be taken into account when exploring new nexus rules that are not constrained by the physical presence requirement This book contains the master s theses of the full time LL M program 2018 2019 for which Special Features of the UN Model Convention has been chosen as the general topic With this book the authors and editors do not aim at discussing each article of the UN Model Convention but rather focus on the unique features of the UN Model Convention which are explored in detail This is supplemented with an evaluation of the function and relevance of the UN Tax Committee in the international tax policy discussion and with an analysis of the influences of the OECD s BEPS project on the UN Model
