A mummy is more than just a scary Halloween creature. A mummy is the dead body of a human being that has been preserved by a unique process called embalming. Egypt is a country famous for its mummies. The ancient Egyptians believed in an afterlife, meaning they thought they would live on in another form after death. People had to do good deeds while they were alive so they could enter the afterlife. They also had to have their bodies preserved. Turning a dead body into a mummy was helping that person enter an afterlife.

Embalming was a long and expensive process. First, a cut was made near the stomach of a dead body to remove some of the internal organs. The heart was always left inside because it was thought to be the center of intelligence. The organs that were removed were dried out and placed in special jars. Egyptians believed that all body parts would magically be put back together in the afterlife.

After the organs were taken out, the rest of the body was washed with wine. The wine helped to kill any germs left on the body. Then, the body was covered with natron. Natron was a salty substance that took the moisture out. Since water causes rot, removing all the moisture was an important step. The body was left to dry out for about 40 days. Afterward, the skin was wrinkled and leathery. Special lotions were rubbed into the skin to soften it. Jewelry was put on.

Last, the body was wrapped in many layers of strips of linen. Lucky amulets were tucked in between the layers. These amulets were believed to have magical powers of protection. A sap called resin was used to glue the strips together. Resin also made the mummy waterproof. Sometimes the mouth was left open so the mummy could breathe in the afterlife. Many think this custom started the superstition that mummies could come back to life. Finally, a mummy was covered in a sheet and placed in a special stone coffin. This stone coffin was called a sarcophagus.
