Illustrate cellular respiration with the following cellular respiration and photosynthesis, taking them at their word. Illustrate cellular respiration and photosynthesis with the following diagram.

1. Respiration (cellular respiration): Respiration is the process of breaking down glucose to produce energy. It occurs in the mitochondria and is the opposite of photosynthesis. The process involves the breakdown of glucose into pyruvate, which is then converted into acetyl-CoA. Acetyl-CoA enters the citric acid cycle, which produces NADH and FADH<sub>2</sub>. These molecules are then used in the electron transport chain to produce ATP.
2. Photosynthesis: Photosynthesis is the process of converting light energy into chemical energy. It occurs in the chloroplasts and is the opposite of respiration. The process involves the absorption of light energy by chlorophyll, which is then used to split water molecules. The resulting electrons are used to reduce NADP+ to NADH. The resulting protons are used to reduce FAD to FADH<sub>2</sub>. These molecules are then used in the electron transport chain to produce ATP.
