Twenty-First-Century Symbolism Nikolaj Lübecker, 2022-04-15 Twenty First Century Symbolism was the winner of the 2023 R Gapper Book Prize How do the writings of Verlaine Baudelaire and Mallarmé speak to our time Why should we continue to read these poets today How might a contemporary reading of their poetry differ from readings delivered in previous centuries Twenty First Century Symbolism argues that Verlaine Baudelaire and Mallarmé prefigure a view of human subjectivity that is appropriate for our times we cannot be separated from the worlds in which we live and evolve human beings both mediate and are mediations of the environments we traverse and that traverse us whether these are natural urban linguistic or technological environments The ambition of the book is therefore twofold on the one hand it aims to offer new readings of the three poets demonstrating their continued relevance for contemporary debates putting them into dialogue with a philosophical corpus that has not yet played a role in the study of nineteenth century French poetry on the other the book relies on the three poets to establish an understanding of human subjectivity that is in tune with our twenty first century concerns
