

A medieval manuscript illustration depicting a scene on a river. A large wooden boat is in the center, with a man in a red tunic and a yellow hat with a red tip steering it. Inside the boat, there is a large white bowl containing a dark, possibly black, substance. To the right of the boat, a man in a pink tunic and a yellow hat stands on the riverbank, holding a long staff or pole. In the background, there are trees and a blue sky. The overall style is characteristic of medieval manuscript art.

Buettner focuses on three significant categories of art the jeweled crown the pictorialized lapidary and the illustrated travel account The global gem trade brought coveted jewels from the Indies to goldsmiths workshops in Paris fashionable bodies in London and the crowns of kings across Europe and Buettner shows that Europe's literal and metaphorical enrichment was predicated on the importation of gems and ideas from Byzantium the Islamic world Persia and India Original transhistorical and cross disciplinary The Mineral and the Visual engages important methodological questions about the work of culture in its material dimension It will be especially useful to scholars and students interested in medieval art history material culture and medieval history
