Dongpo Li, Teruaki Nanseki, 2013-03-06 The prediction of China's rise is the subject of this book. The main ideas of this book are derived from Kanshokufuji, a new concept proposed by the chief editor of Prof. Nanseki pertaining to a sound food system in a sound agro environment. It implies that food supply and demand are non-separable in terms of location due to the importance of retaining the suitable condition of the environment and biodiversity in the region. This concept is necessary and useful for coping with environmental issues and related food safety issues. From this viewpoint, several integrated surveys in both rural and urban areas of China were conducted by the food risk research group at the Research Institute for East Asia Environments (RIEAE), Kyushu University, to reveal the current status of the environment, food, and agriculture in this country. The results of the surveys are introduced in this book along with implications and recommendations. We hope this book be referential for policy makers, researchers, and industry personnel relating to food, agriculture, and environment.
